Nitish apologises; PM raps INDIA over remark

NCW seeks action, expunction of statement

RAMASHANKAR AND RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna/Guna

A day after Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar's graphical description of copulation in the state Assembly while explaining the state's drop in fertility rate drew national outrage, he offered his apology and walked back on his remarks on Wednesday. "If my words were wrong, I apologise. If anyone got hurt, I take back my words," Nitish told media persons.

Bihar CM Nitish Kumar speaks amid protests by opposition members in the Assembly on Wednesday | PTI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi led the blistering attack against Nitish without naming him at an election rally in Guna in poll-bound Madhya Pradesh. Claiming the remarks were extremely disrespectful to women, Modi said they came from the head of one of the allies of the Opposition INDIA bloc.

"But what was more shocking was that not a single word has been uttered by any other constituent of the INDIA bloc condemning it. How will people with such blurred vision ensure the respect and honour of women," he wondered.

In the state Assembly, BJP members created ruckus demanding the CM's resignation, forcing adjournment of the House. The situation was similar when Nitish went to the legislative council. It, too, had to be adjourned.

In Bihar, a complaint was lodged against Nitish's remarks in a Muzaffarpur court. It would be taken up for hearing on November 25. He has been booked under sections 354D (stalking), 504 (intentional insult), 505 (with intent to incite any class or community), 509 (intent to insult woman's modesty) of the Indian Penal Code and Section 67 of the IT Act.

The National Commission for Women (NCW) Chairperson Rekha Sharma, too, lashed out at Nitish, saying his statement was like a "dialogue from a C-grade movie."

The NCW chief demanded strong action from the Bihar Speaker against the chief minister.

In a letter to Bihar Speaker Awadh Bihari Choudhary, Sharma said, "The Commission strongly condemns and protests the use of such derogatory, vulgar statements made by persons holding responsible positions which shows extreme disrespect to women." Demanding that the Speaker expunge the remarks, Sharma said the worst part was that male MLAs sitting in the Assembly were laughing at it.

6 tmcft more Cauvery water for B'luru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE state government has allocated an additional six tmcft of Cauvery water to Bengaluru for drinking purpose.

Currently, the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) is utilising 18 tmcft of Cauvery water. With this additional allocation, the state capital will get 24 tmcft of Cauvery water, according to a government order. However, according to BWSSB, it is currently utilising 19 tmcft of Cauvery water.

Deputy Chief Minister and Bengaluru Development Minister DK Shivakumar said that an order has been issued to reserve 24 tmcft of Cauvery water annually for drinking purpose in Bengaluru and its surrounding areas.In 2018, the Supreme Court stipulated that 24 tmcft of Cauvery water can be used for drinking purpose in Bengaluru. "No action was taken to utilise full 24 tmcft of Cauvery water. Now, we are planning to use 6 tmcft more for drinking purpose in the state capital," he added.

Shivakumar said providing drinking water is the government's priority and it is following the SC's direction. "Why should we give up our rights? We are following the SC direction and that much water will be reserved in the KRS reservoir or other reservoirs in the Cauvery basin for Bengaluru," the DyCM said responding to a question if Tamil Nadu will object to the increased allocation to Bengaluru.

Stressing the need for a plan to supply drinking water to the city keeping in mind its growth in the next 20 years, he said. P5

Panel may recommend Moitra's termination

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

THE Lok Sabha's Ethics Committee is expected to recommend the termination of TMC MP Mahua Moitra's Parliament membership, according to sources. The panel will meet on Thursday to consider and adopt its draft report on the cash-for-query charges levelled by BJP MP Nishikant Dubey against Moitra.

The panel, headed by BJP MP Vinod Sonkar, is probing Dubey's allegations that Moitra accepted gifts and favours for asking questions in the Lok Sabha at the behest of businessman Darshan Hiranandani. It is learnt that the draft report took a serious view of the allegations and found Moitra's acts 'objectionable, unethical, and criminal'. The draft was of the view that the Trinamool MP should be given stringent punishment. The panel's recommendation will be submitted to the Lok Sabha Speaker. The House can either reject or accept the recommendations. It is also learnt that the draft report of the 15-member panel would say the matter is serious and should be probed by central agencies in a time-bound manner. P10

Govt opens kitty before city goes the Delhi way

EVs must for all govt officials soon, govt to use Rs 500 cr to improve air quality

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

JOLTED by Delhi's worryingly poor Air Quality Index (AQI), and not wanting Bengaluru to follow in the footsteps of the national capital, the state government has woken up to the unutilised Rs 500 crore in its kitty to improve the city's air quality. Plans are now afoot to make it mandatory for all state and central government officials posted in Bengaluru to use electric vehicles as part of a slew of measures aimed at significantly cutting air pollution in Bengaluru on a war-footing.

To firm up the plans, a series of meetings are being held under the chairmanship of Urban Development Department (UDD) additional chief secretary Rakesh Singh on the directions of Deputy Chief Minister and Bengaluru district in-charge Minister DK Shivakumar. The matter has been discussed with central government officials, and all required support has been promised. The Centre has also agreed to help financially, said Singh.

The first step taken to cut air pollution is to address vehicular and dust pollution in the ambient air. "At a meeting, it was decided that henceforth all government officials will use only electric vehicles, and not petrol or diesel vehicles. An order will also be issued that all officials coming to office must come only in EVs," a source privy to the meetings said.

It has also been decided to phase out all diesel and CNG buses and shift to EV buses. Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) has also been directed to continuously monitor vehicular pollution, especially particulate matter (PM) 2.5 and reduce dust pollution in Bengaluru. Pourakarmikas will also be given EV sweeping machines. "Delhi's air pollution made us realise we had Rs 500 crore in our kitty dedicated to address Bengaluru's air pollution, but nothing was done about it. Now to ensure Bengaluru does not go the Delhi way, and to control air pollution levels here, we are thinking of fully utilising this money on various works," an official said.

"Although directions for management of construction and debris (C&D) waste have been issued, they are not followed. Directions to address air pollution during civil works and building construction are also not followed," another source said. "It has been decided that punitive action will be taken against violators. Utilisation of generators will be banned and solar power generation will be made mandatory. It has also been decided to take up aggressive afforestation activities and footpath improvement works in the city to encourage pedestrians to walk," the official who attended the meetings said.

No road on Bellandur Lake, only canal, bund: BDA to NGT

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) on Wednesday filed an affidavit with the National Green Tribunal (NGT) in Chennai stating that it has not built any road through Bellandur Lake.

This was in response to a complaint filed with the Tribunal by a resident, Harikrishna, accusing the authority of building a road through the lake.

A top official told The New Indian Express, "We filed an affidavit today (Wednesday) stating that BDA has never built a road though the lake. The BDA had only built a diversion canal as well as a bund in order to divert sewage downstream so that it does not enter the lake. It has been erroneously reported to the Tribunal by the owner of a local school that a road had been built by us."

The desilting of the lake and movement of trucks transporting silt require a pathway. "This is a temporary arrangement from our side only to facilitate completion of the desilting," he said.

RMN Infrastructure had been contracted with the job at a cost of Rs 100 crore, the official added.

The bund prevents sewage from entering Bellandur Lake | EXPRESS

Another official said BDA would take at least a year to complete the desilting work after which the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board will take up construction of Sewage Treatment Plant so that the water is treated before it enters the lake.

Bellandur lake is among the biggest lakes in the city covering 916 acres and 43 guntas. Data furnished by BDA officials reveals that 57.7% of the overall silt has been transported from the lake through tippers fixed with GPS. A total of 16.88 lakh cubic metres of silt have already been removed from the lake.

"We have stopped the desilting work here temporarily since July due to the rain," the official added.

BDA is carrying out desilting work at Varthur lake too with 96% of the silt being removed.

Deepavali: Private transporters jack up fares

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

PRIVATE travel operators have increased the cost of tickets ahead of the Deepavali festival. As thousands of people travel to their native places during this time, private travel operators have hiked the cost of tickets by 30 per cent and even more on routes with high demand. Officials from the transport department said they have already warned private operators against overcharging and they will carry out enforcement drives.

"A non air-conditioned sleeper bus from Bengaluru to my native Namakkal in Tamil Nadu is generally around Rs 1,000. I usually depend on ticket booking apps and check for the best deals and lowest prices. However, as Deepavali is upcoming, the ticket price has crossed Rs 2,000. During festivals, private travel operators exploit the demand and we do not see any action from the government," said Sriram, a private company employee.

The same situation is faced by people heading to different destinations from Bengaluru for Deepavali celebrations and tourism spots.

A senior official from the transport department said, "Transport Minister Ramalinga Reddy has also warned private travel operators not to charge exorbitantly and action will be initiated against those who break the law. We will take action and slap penalties against private travel operators."

Officials from the Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation said they will run 2,000 additional buses to different intra-state destinations like Kukke Subramanya, Dharmastala, Shivamogga, Hassan, Mangaluru, Kundapura, Shringeri, Horanadu, Davanagere, Hubballi, Dharwad, Kalaburagi, Ballari, Koppal, Yadgir and Bidar as well as interstate destinations like Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Andhra Pradesh and Goa. It requested people to use government buses instead of private ones.

WHILE highlighting shortcomings in the healthcare sector, Health Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao said state-run institutions are not the most efficient right now.

To address this, the government is taking measures to improve existing infrastructure and ensure timely implementation of government programmes, Rao said in a press conference with the Centre for Cellular and Molecular Platforms (C-CAMP) on Wednesday. Several organisations like Infosys Foundation, AstraZeneca, Cipla, GE Healthcare, Novo Nordisk Foundation and Biocon Foundation participated in the conference.

Discussing corporate social responsibility (CSR) and philanthropic partnerships between the state government and private partners, the minister said companies should spend their CSR funds towards developing public health infrastructure.

HC dismisses PILs against VTU V-C

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has dismissed two public interest litigations seeking direction to remove Vidyashankar S as vice-chancellor of Visvesvaraya Technological University (VTU). Vidyashankar was appointed as VTU V-C on September 29, 2022.

"In our opinion, the petitioners have not approached the court with 'clean hands, clean heart and clean objective'. This apart, there is a short unexplained delay on the part of the petitioners in calling in question the appointment to a public office," a division bench of Chief Justice Prasanna B Varale and Justice Krishna S Dixit said.

The petitions were filed by Prof B Shivaraj, former acting V-C of the University of Mysore, and one Dr K Mahadev. They contended that the search committee was wrongly constituted since two of its members were associated with the VTU and there was no UGC nominee. Also, Vidyashankar lacked requisite qualifications in terms of Section 13 of the VTU Act, they claimed.

Wild tiger, leopard captured taking a stroll on safari road

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

VISITORS to Bannerghatta Biological Park (BBP) would occasionally capture a wild tiger seated on the other side of the park enclosure, calling out to tigresses. However, at 1.57pm on Tuesday, one of the striped cats was captured on camera traps taking a walk on the safari road, at 1.57pm on Tuesday. And it wasn't the only one around. At 4pm that day, a wild leopard took a stroll at the same location, and was also captured by the camera.

BBP Executive Director Surya Sen said the stretch where the animals were photographed, connects the zoo area to the safari enclosure. He explained that this is not the first time wild animals have been seen taking a walk here, but they are usually seen at night; this is the first time they were walking around during the day.

Sen said the zoo area had been carved out of Bannerghatta National Park (BNP), which is home to wild tigers and leopards. At some point, there is no concrete boundary wall and a forest boundary is shared, through which the animals would have strayed in. "It is not a matter of worry, but of pride. This increases the responsibility not just of officials but every citizen to ensure better conservation," he said.

> This is not the first time wild animals have been seen taking a walk here, but they are usually seen at night; this is the first time they were walking around during the day — Surya Sen, BBP Executive Director

Experts said this also explains how wildlife is adapting to human behaviour. "If you observe, the animals that usually wander at night have started come out in the day time on a Tuesday, the day the zoo is closed for the public. This is similar to Covid-19 times, when the animals were moving freely and there was no conflict. One must also remember that there has been no man-animal conflict because of these wild animals wandering in and around the zoo premises," an expert said.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

09TH November: One more word about the current tough-minded, planetary patterns. I have one specific hope that relates to this alignment – that the world may move one step closer to peaceful resolution of the problem of nuclear weapons. I believe that pressure on our politicians – in all countries - can make them see sense!

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Relaxation is all very well, but do maintain your guard. There is still a great deal that can go wrong, even if some areas of life seem to be picking up. This is a time of extremes, and there is little room for moderation. It may be up to you to find a middle way and persuade everyone to compromise.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
It is almost impossible to say whether today's lunar alignments will soothe your troubled brow or further obscure your view of reality. So much depends on your skill in handling difficult people. You may be about to impress with your success in soothing a hot-tempered colleague.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
The truth of the matter, whether professional or personal, will be obvious next week, so just hold on a little while longer. In the meantime, there's probably no respite from hard work. Don't exhaust yourself, though. You'll be no use to anyone if you're fed up and flat on your back.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
Emotional difficulties brought about by the challenging and change-inducing alignments of Venus, Mercury and Pluto, are surely enough to try the patience of a saint. But there is no reason why you shouldn't give up and walk away from responsibilities which are no longer worthwhile.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
You may still be feeling a little surprised by recent announcements and you might have to be fast on your feet if you are to regain the initiative. Pay more attention to financial affairs under today's mildly confusing lunar alignments. But don't take final decisions unless you are one hundred and one percent sure.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Your ideas are fine, but it may take someone else to stiffen your resolve and make you commit yourself to a particular course of action. The Sun may make information difficult to come by, though. But, then, perhaps there really is nothing at all to find out!

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The Moon's sway over a sector of your horoscope ruling work and self-sacrifice indicates that this is not the time to abandon your responsibilities or renege on commitments. Your deeply complex planetary patterns advise you to stick to your guns.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
I don't want to keep harking on about the same old things, but you're still passing through an emotional minefield which could set off fireworks in almost any area, personal or professional. Being a Scorpio, though, you are well fitted to cope with life's little mysteries.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
It will be worth your while to offer an olive branch to partners and associates. Remember those wise sayings about forgiving seven times seven and turning the other cheek: your concern for others should win out over self-interest. Plus, a younger relation may provide good advice.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Venus and Jupiter are offering you generous help via close partners, but you may have to ask first. This is no time for reticence, so push yourself to the front of the queue. The Capricorn who thrives will be he, or she, who abandons normal reserve and shows a bit of bare-faced cheek.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Although certain individuals are quite pleasant to your face, you know that you might not have been told the entire, unadulterated truth. On the other hand, relationships at work are really quite profitable, and you may gain emotionally as much as financially.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Others may have used emotional ties to try and force you into a particular situation. However, lunar alignments indicate that you have the advantage and that Piscean wit, subtlety and sensitivity will win out. And that has to be the best news going.

Man arrested for harassing woman passenger on flight from Frankfurt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A woman flyer has filed a case against a 52-year-old UK resident on charges of sexually harassing her on board a Lufthansa flight from Frankfurt to Bengaluru. He was taken into custody on November 7 morning as soon as the flight reached Terminal 2 of Kempegowda International Airport.

The incident allegedly took place mid-air on Monday night on board LH-0754 after it took off from Frankfurt, said a source. The 32-year-old woman is a native of Tirupati in Andhra Pradesh. The abuser, Shankaranarayan Ranganathan, has been booked on charges of sexual harassment.

"Four hours after the flight had taken off from the Frankfurt Am Main Airport, the woman had dozed off. She woke up when the man seated next to her placed his hand on her thigh. The incident occurred sometime between 11.45 pm and midnight IST. The woman warned him and asked him to remove his hand. Sometime later, he repeated the act. After that, the woman alerted a cabin crew member and changed her seat," read the FIR.

The Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) were alerted about the incident before the flight reached KIA at 2 am on Tuesday. "As soon as the flight reached the airport, CISF personnel took Ranganathan into custody and handed him over to the airport police," said a security official.

He was taken to the KIA police station and a case filed under Section 354A of IPC. The section states, "Any man who engages in unwelcome and explicit sexual behaviour, demands sexual favours, shows pornography against a woman's will, or makes sexually coloured remarks can be punished with imprisonment or fine."

Lufthansa could not be reached for their response.

Scrap dealer assaulted, abducted over fake $3m found on railway track

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A plastic bag with 23 bundles of currency totalling $3million, said to be fake, and a United Nations (UN) letter, put a scrap dealer into trouble as he was brutally beaten up and abducted by miscreants, who demanded that he give them money found on a railway track.

On Friday, Saleman, a ragpicker associated with Bappa, a scrap dealer, found $3 million while searching for scrap on Nagawara railway track. Saleman informed Bappa about the money, and Bappa, who was travelling, asked him to keep the money with him.

However, Saleman approached Kaleemullah, a social activist, who took him to the police commissioner on Sunday. They handed over the money, which was later sent to the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) for verification.

Late Tuesday night, the accused went to Bappa's house in Chiranjeevi Layout near Kempapura and assaulted him, demanding that he give them the money. Other ragpickers, who heard the noise, came to rescue Bappa but the miscreants allegedly threatened them and told them to stay out of it.

The ragpickers, however, alerted Kaleemullah.

Kaleemullah told The New Indian Express that the accused had allegedly searched Bappa's house for the money. "When they didn't find the money, they blindfolded and abducted him to an unknown apartment. After checking his phone, the accused freed Bappa near Manyata Tech Park around 9:30am on Wednesday," Kaleemullah said, adding that he was told that one of the miscreants was also carrying a gun.

Suspecting the miscreants to be from the same locality where Bappa lives, Kaleemullah said they would have got to know about the money through news reports.

"The miscreants also threatened to kill Bappa if he filed a police complaint," he said.

He further said that police were informed about the incident but no complaint was filed.

He has been charged with cheating at Cottonpet police station.

Fitness centre coach arrested for recording video of woman bathing

PRAVEEN KUMAR
@Bengaluru

A 29-year-old woman filed a complaint against the fitness coach of a reputed fitness centre located near NRI Layout in Banaswadi area, for taking pictures and making videos of her having a bath after her training session. The woman saw a mobile phone near the window of the bathroom. When she came out, she didn't find anyone. She asked another coach at the centre, who pointed to the accused. The incident took place between 9am and 11am on Sunday.

In order to confirm her suspicion, she complained to the manager and checked CCTV footage and saw the accused taking pictures. The victim is an IT professional and a resident of Akshaynagar in Ramamurthy Nagar. She filed a police complaint against her fitness coach, HS Sibiachan, on Monday, after consulting her family.

"The woman had joined the fitness centre around two months ago to learn badminton and swimming. On Sunday morning, after her swimming classes, while she was having a bath, she saw somebody taking her photographs with a mobile through the bathroom window. She immediately came out, but didn't notice anybody. She then asked another coach, who pointed to Sibiachan. She approached Deepak, the manager, and checked CCTV footage and found her coach taking her photographs," the victim's complaint said.

"The coach was arrested. He is a native of Kerala. His mobile phone was seized and sent to FSL to retrieve data, as he had reportedly deleted photos and videos from the mobile. After the incident, we spoke to the manager and other coaches of the gym to check if there was any previous complaint against him. According to preliminary investigation, he is not a habitual offender. We have asked the gym management to initiate action against him due to the serious charges levelled against him by the woman," said an investigating officer.

A case of voyeurism under Section 354C of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) was registered against the accused.

Further investigations are on, said the police.

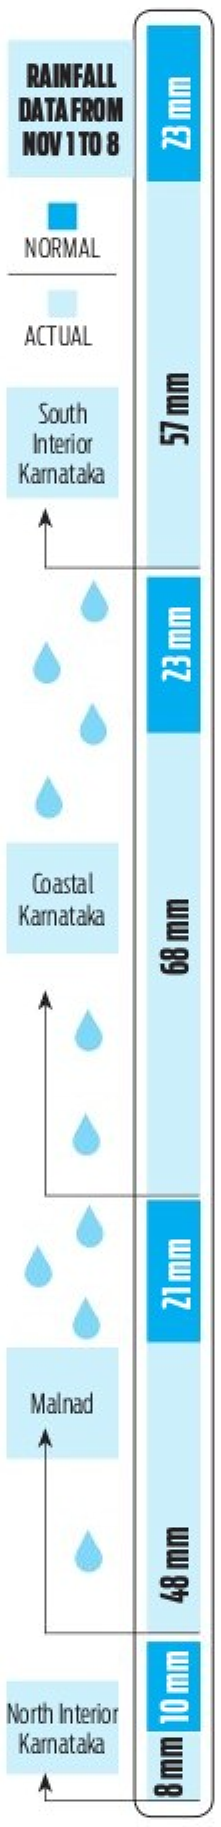
After SW rain deficit, NE monsoon may destroy crops

Rain during harvest season a worry for farmers hit by drought

Karnataka, including the capital Bengaluru, is witnessing heavy to moderate rain over the last few days owing to the Northeast monsoon | FILE PHOTO

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru



FARMERS who were facing distress during the Southwest monsoon this year due to deficit rainfall that led to drought, are facing another blow due to heavy rain, especially in south interior Karnataka. Farmers who are gearing up to harvest crops, which are not plentiful this year due to rain deficit, and fear losing the yield to heavy rain now.

Karnataka received 642mm of rain during the Southwest monsoon (June to September) as against 852mm of actual rainfall. Though the IMD had predicted a normal Northeast monsoon, the state saw 65 per cent deficit in October. However, most parts of the state are receiving heavy rain in the past week, bringing the deficit down to 47 per cent.

According to Karnataka State Natural Disaster Management Centre (KSNDMC) data, from November 1 to November 8 this year, the state was to receive an average of 17mm of rain, but received 34mm. Except north interior Karnataka, all regions received heavy rain.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, GS Srinivas Reddy, former director of KSNDMC and now serving as scientific officer, said farmers who took up sowing in June and July in south interior Karnataka, are ready for the harvest. With rain deficit, their yield has come down, and heavy rain during the harvest season is posing a threat to crops. Rain during harvest is not good as crops suffer damage. Farmers have sown ragi, jowar, groundnut and other crops, which could face damage, he added.

Damage to grains

This month's rain is also causing damage to south interior parts of the state. KSNDMC data reveals that the quantity of rain received is much higher. While Bengaluru Rural received 72mm rain as against the normal of 25mm this month, Mysuru and Chamarajanagara each received 74mm as against 26mm, and similarly, Davanagere received 56mm as against 16mm rain.

Prof MB Rajegowda, agrometeorologist and former registrar of the University of Agricultural Sciences, said that in a normal monsoon year (when Southweat monsoon is normal), farmers start harvesting from the third week of October and finish the process by the second week of November. But this year, due to deficit rain, crops are being harvested in parts, and heavy rain is causing damage. "The grains are getting heavier due to heavy rain, and will eventually fall. The grains start sprouting, which are of no use. The grains also gather fungus, which adds chaos for farmers," he said.

No water from Almatti for kharif crops

FIROZ ROZINDAR @Vijayapura

THE prevailing drought and limited storage of water in the Almatti dam across the Krishna river has forced the State Government to not release water into canals for irrigation for the present kharif season and to utilise water only for drinking purposes. The decision has hit the farmers of the catchment area hard as they are struggling to save their standing crops.

The Irrigation Consultative Committee (ICC) of Upper Krishna Project (UKP) which met on Tuesday resolved to not release water for crops.

"We have taken a unanimous decision not to release water for the kharif crops in the coming days. However, as per the decision taken in the last meeting, water would be released only for 19 days. Even this would be done based on the division-wise cropping pattern of the catchment areas. The chief engineers of different divisions will be given the authority to release water based on the cropping conditions," said Excise Minister RB Timmapur, who is also ICC chairman.

He said that the decision was arrived at after taking into consideration the prevailing drought, availability of water and requirement of water for drinking till the next monsoon season.

He said 75 tmcft of water was needed for the rabi season, but there was not enough water in the Almatti dam.

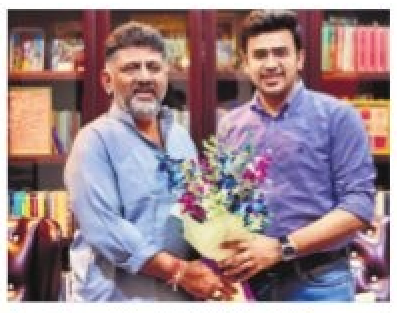
The Minister said as decided in the past, water will be released till November 18. Later, it will be stopped from November 19 to 26. Water will be released for eight days from November 27 till December 4. The engineers should also consult the Deputy Commissioner's of their region and local elected representatives before releasing water, he said.

With regard to the availability of water, Timmapur said that the inflow into Almatti dam stopped from October 13 itself. After releasing water for irrigation, the dam would be left with 50 tmcft of water, and a live storage of 32 tmcft.

"By adding 12 tmcft from Narayanapura dam, we will be left with only 44 tmcft. Even this water will not remain as there will be evaporation loss in summers," he added.

DKS: KPCC to get new working presidents, no third power centre

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru



Benglauru South MP Tejasvi Surya met DyCM DK Shivakumar in Bengaluru on Wednesday and discussed various issues concerning the city | PTI

DEPUTY Chief Minister D K Shivakumar on Wednesday met high command leaders, including AICC General Secretary (Organisation) K C Venugopal in New Delhi, and briefed them about political developments in Karnataka.

Shivakumar said the high command had sought suggestions on appointing new working presidents as the incumbents -- Satish Jarakiholi, Eshwar Khandre and Ramalinga Reddy -- felt it a burden as they have to focus on their respective departments, and that a decision will be taken soon. He ruled out a cabinet reshuffle and induction of former CM Jagadish Shettar into the cabinet, but said that appointments to boards and corporations will be done.

"There is only one Chief Minister in the state, only one KPCC president, and the Deputy Chief Minister is attached to it," he said, when asked about Satish Jarkiholi emerging as a third power centre in the state.

He claimed to have information about the BJP launching 'Operation Lotus' but asserted that the saffron party cannot poach a single Congress MLA. "It is not possible for the BJP to draw a single MLA," Shivakumar told reporters. Asked about former Maharashtra CM Devendra Fadnavis allegedly holding talks with some Congress MLAs in Karnataka, Shivakumar clarified that no MLA had taken part in the meeting.

"Those working as agents approached our MLAs, who informed us about it. Those who were with us and went there (BJP) were working on this operation," he alleged, indirectly referring to former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi. "They (BJP leaders) are doing this to create confusion ahead of the Lok Sabha elections. I know all their moves," he said, and claimed that more leaders from BJP and JDS are joining the Congress on November 15.

Shivakumar claimed to have discussed the ongoing elections to five states, including Telangana, with the high command. "Over 50 leaders from Karnataka have been assigned election work in Telangana. I am also going on November 10," he said.

Shivakumar said the state government will act on implementing the Justice AJ Sadashiva Commission report on classification of SC quota, in a phased manner. When his attention was drawn to SC Left community members planning a massive rally during the winter session in Belagavi, he said a decision will be taken while ensuring there is no injustice to any of the communities. "The Congress had made some resolutions at a convention of SCs/STs at Chitradurga. We will take decisions step by step," he stated.

'People will bless Cong with 20 seats'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

KPCC working-president Saleem Ahmed on Wednesday claimed that the Congress will win not less than 20 seats in Karnataka in the upcoming Lok Sabha elections. "I am sure people will bless Congress with 20 seats in the upcoming LS polls," he added.

On the Congress' poll preparations, he said, "Ministers have been deputed to all districts. KPCC has instructed ministers and observers to submit a report on the possible candidates for LS polls in a week.

KPCC president DK Shivakumar, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and party state incharge General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala will hold discussions and submit a report to the high command. Party candidates for LS polls will be announced in the second week of January."

Hitting out at the Centre for not releasing funds to tackle drought in the state, Ahmed said, "We have asked for Rs 17,900 crore from the Centre. But thanks to the step-motherly attitude, there has been no response from the Centre. This in spite of Karnataka sending 25 BJP MPs and having five union ministers. Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman is ignoring the state as there is a Congress government here." Ahmed said that the centenary celebrations of Seva Dal will be held on the Palace Grounds in Bengaluru on November 9. "The programme will be inaugurated by CM Siddaramaiah and DyCM DK Shivakumar will preside over the function," he said.

45 Cong MLAs in touch with BJP: HDK

JDS state president HD Kumaraswamy and other party leaders at Hasanamba temple in Hassan on Wednesday

IN a shocking revelation, JDS state president HD Kumaraswamy has claimed that 45 Congress MLAs are reportedly in touch with BJP leaders. This, he said, was according to a report by the state intelligence.

Addressing reporters after visiting the famous Hasanamba Temple in Hassan along with JDS MLAs, the former chief minister said CM Siddaramaiah and DyCM DK Shivakumar should first safeguard their MLAs and not make futile attempts to poach JDS legislators.

"Unfortunately, the CM and his ministers are trying to lure JDS MLAs despite the Congress winning 136 seats," he said, adding that all the 19 JDS MLAs are united.

He claimed Karnataka's financial burden will cross Rs 10 lakh crore if the Congress remained in power for five years. "The guarantee schemes have failed... crores is being looted in the implementation of the Shakti scheme," he added. Taking a dig at Siddaramaiah, Kumaraswamy said that he doesn't want to learn politics from a leader who allegedly wore a Hublot branch watch. He also said that the JDS-BJP alliance will be given a final shape by the end of December.

Hampi admin to come under Vijayanagar district

BANSY KALAPPA
@ Bengaluru

IN an effort to improve management of the UNESCO heritage site of Hampi, the government proposes to bring the Hampi World Heritage Area Management Authority (HWAHMA) under the jurisdiction of Vijayanagar district.

Despite the bifurcation of Ballari district into Ballari and Vijayanagar in 2021, HWAHMA came under the jurisdiction of Ballari, which affected administration. While Hampi geographically comes under Vijayanagar, administration was routed through Ballari. Vijaynagar Deputy Commissioner MS Divakara said it meant that court cases and proposals concerning administration had to be routed through Ballari.

A HWHAMA official said that because of this administrative anomaly, they had to shuttle to Ballari, about 60km away, for meetings held every three months. The administration had raised it with the state government, which is expected to take it up at the cabinet meeting, to be held at 4pm Thursday.

The HWHAMA was formed to manage and take special care of the world-renowned site and resources. The anomaly is expected to be taken up in the upcoming legislature session, and an Act passed, laying down rules for the authority to administer Hampi.

The government has received many suggestions that management of Hampi needs to be improved. Keeping that in mind, the government has held meetings with HWHAMA officials and district authorities.

Meanwhile, the Assembly Speaker and Council chairman and their teams of officials who had visited Belagavi, returned. The next legislative session will be held from December 4 to 15, and is likely to be taken up in the cabinet on Thursday.

DVS: Differences in BJP delaying LOP, state president appointments

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hassan

BENGALURU North Member of Parliament DV Sadananda Gowda on Wednesday said that the appointment of Leader of Opposition and the Bharatiya Janata Party state president is delayed owing to alleged differences among a few senior leaders of the party.

Addressing media persons after visiting drought-affected areas in Hassan and Belur taluks, Gowda, a former chief minister, said the BJP high command has already gathered the opinion of senior state party leaders. The announcement will soon come after the elections to five states are completed, he added.

Gowda, a former state BJP president, said there is no link between appointment of a new party president and the opposition leader with the proposed alliance with JDS for 2024 Lok Sabha polls.

The proposed alliance between the two parties is yet to be finalised as the issue is yet to be discussed in the BJP state core committee, he said.

The state BJP leaders also have expressed their opinion that the BJP high command should take the state BJP leaders and party workers into confidence before finalising the alliance, he added.

Gowda also hit out at CM Siddaramaiah saying he failed to tackle the drought in the state in an effective manner.

"All BJP MPs from Karnataka will urge the Centre to revise the NDRF guidelines. The CM could have led an all-party delegation to the Centre to put pressure upon the PM for input subsidy," he said.

Video of minister 'helped' by security staff to wear shoes goes viral

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR
@ Dharwad

A purported video of Social Welfare Minister HC Mahadevappa allegedly being helped by a security personnel to wear his shoes has gone viral on social media on Wednesday. The incident is said to have happened during the minister's visit to a hostel run by the Social Welfare Department in Saptapur in Dharwad for inspection. In the video, Mahadevappa — who was coming out of the hostel's kitchen where he had gone without footwear — is seen being helped by the security personnel to wear his footwear. Further in the video, Mahadevappa can allegedly be seen not stopping the security personnel and seen conversing with those around him. Meanwhile, speaking to the wardens, the minister said, "The role of warden (of hostels) is important to change the image of the Social Welfare Department. Every dormitory in the department is your home... treat students as members of your family. Discipline, education, and health should be your priority."

Govt may table Sadashiva report on SC quota

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

THE Congress government, which has promised to accept the socio-economic caste census done by the Backward Classes Commission soon, is likely to table the justice AJ Sadashiva Commission's report on classification of SC quota during the winter session in Belagavi next month.

In its manifesto for the May 10 assembly elections, the Congress party had promised to implement the report. Interestingly, even before the opposition parties raising the issue, Food and Civil Supplies Minister KH Muniyappa raked it up by giving a call to the Madiga community (SC-left) members to protest against the district in-charge ministers concerned to exert pressure on them.

However, SC-right leaders, including Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara and Social Welfare Minister Dr HC Mahadevappa clarified that they have no objection to the implementation of the report, provided all the 101 communities within the SC category are taken into confidence.

Writer Devanuru Mahadeva held a meeting of some leaders of these communities recently in Mysuru on the issue, according to a source. But the Bhovi and Lambani communities opposed the report, although it has not been released fully.

The report recommended a classification of 15% SC quota with 6% to SC (left), 5% to right, 3% to Bhovi, Lambani, Koracha and Korama castes, and 1% to others. But the previous Bommai government increased the SC quota to 17% through an Ordinance, following the recommendations of Justice Nagamohan Das Commission.

Meanwhile, the then law minister JC Madhuswamy had declared that the AJ Sadashiva Commission's report had also been accepted by the government which resulted in the "confusion". The Lambanis staged a statewide protest with a religious head even attempting suicide. It was one of the factors that went against BJP in the assembly elections.

Ahead of 2013 assembly polls, the SC-left members staged a protest in front of Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi demanding that the report, which the commission submitted in 2012 when DV Sadananda Gowda was CM, be implemented. They were lathi-charged and the community turned against BJP. This helped Congress win in 2013, said P Sriram, an activist.

The issue assumes significance now because of the 2024 LS polls. As the state legislature has no provision to implement the classification of quota, the Siddaramaiah government will place the report for a debate and forward it to the Centre for implementation, according to political analysts.

Shadakshari moved from Shivamogga to Kolar

ENS @ Bengaluru

Karnataka State Employee Union president CS Shadakshari was transferred from Shivamogga to Kolar, and posted to the accounts section of the social welfare department, Kolar.

According to the sources in the government, it was done under political pressure. Education Minister Madhu Bangarappa is said to be the person behind his transfer. Shadakshari is said to be BS Yeddyurappa's man and Geetha Shivarajkumar, sister of Madhu, is keen on contesting the Lok Sabha polls from Shivamogga. Shadakshari is said to be influential in Shivamogga and this could have been the reason, say sources in the state government. There are allegations of irregularities against Shadakshari and minister Madhu Bangarappa, stressing on it, had written to CM Siddaramaiah and got a transfer order issued.

HC grants bail to Murugha Mutt pontiff in one case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE High Court of Karnataka on Wednesday granted bail to Dr Shivamurthy Murugha Sharanaru of Sri Jagadguru Murugharajendra Bruhanmath of Chitradurga in one of the two cases registered against him for allegedly sexually abusing two minor girls. The court, however, imposed conditions that the seer should not enter Chitradurga district till the conclusion of the trial pending in two cases. He should appear before the special court during trial through video-conferencing without fail.

Justice Sreenivas Harish Kumar passed this order on the petitions filed by the seer in connection with a complaint registered against him under the POCSO Act and other Acts in August 2022.

"It is no doubt true that Sharanaru is the chief of a mutt which has a large number of devotees and followers. His position itself cannot be a reason for drawing an inference that he will try to meddle with the evidence. The mere allegation to this effect cannot be considered if a case for bail is otherwise made out. Bail is not an absolute liberty; conditions are always imposed while granting bail. If he misuses the liberty and violates the conditions, the same may be considered for cancellation of bail," the court observed.

Assessing the materials collected by the investigator, the court noted that the victims did not state that they were subjected to aggravated sexual assault before the magistrate. But their statements indicated a kind of sexual assault, contrary to the statement given to the investigator and the doctor.

The court said that the victims stated that eight more girls of the hostel were also sexually abused like them. But none of those girls complained of sexual abuse. In contrast, they stated that the seer used to treat them well and teach English and Sanskrit once a week.

Pointing out the contradictions in the statements of the victims and the prosecution, the court noted that the conduct of the victims in going to Bengaluru on July 24, 2022, leaving the hostel at 4 pm assumes importance... The complaint could have been given to Chitradurga police. Instead, they went to Mysuru. All these events look mysterious, said the court, adding that the trial court shall decide the case on merits without being influenced by any of the observations made in this order.

FIR against mutt ex-admin Basavarajan, wife quashed

OBSERVING that the proceedings initiated at the behest of Sri Basavaprabhu Swamiji is a deliberate attempt calculated to derail the trial against the pontiff of the Jagadguru Murugharajendra Bruhanmath, the HC said it is its bounden duty to insulate criminal cases (registered against the pontiff) from outside interferences. Justice R Devdas made these observations while quashing the FIR against SK Basavarajan, former administrator of the mutt, his wife Sowbhagya Basavarajan, and others, based on a complaint by Basavaprabhu Swamiji, the in-charge pontiff of the mutt, in July 2022, stating that some persons conspired to tarnish the image of the mutt and pontiff by coaxing the two young girls to make unfounded statements. The court further observed that it was necessary to notice the dubious conduct of the Chitradurga police in putting a wrong label of the offences, only to facilitate registration of a cognisable offence, although a plain reading of the written complaint given by Basavaprabhu Swamiji does not make out any offence in Sections 384 or 366A of the IPC.

Zimbabwean gets 10 yrs RI in heroin case

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Special Court for NDPS Cases has sentenced a Zimbabwe national, Masumba Tafadzwa (35), to 10 years' rigorous imprisonment and ordered her to pay a fine of Rs 1 lakh for smuggling 8,240 gm of heroin.

Tafadzwa was caught with heroin on her arrival in Bengaluru from Doha on June 30, 2021. The drug was concealed in the bag she was carrying.

Three polythene packets containing heroin were found when the bag was cut open by the security personnel at the Kempegowda International Airport.

During interrogation, Tafadzwa said that she came to Bengaluru for a health check-up and was not aware of the drug concealed in the bag.

She told the investigating officers that her friend Caroline in Zimbabwe had asked her to hand over the bag to a person who will approach her in Bengaluru.

BWSSB yet to prepare plan on water usage

ANEKAL, Harohalli and parts of Bengaluru North are growing rapidly. They too need water supply. "We are providing water to Kempegowda International Airport also," he added.

The BWSSB is yet to prepare a plan for utilisation of additional Cauvery water. "It has not taken any decision on which areas to be listed for supply of this additional 6 tmcft of Cauvery water," BWSSB Engineer-in-Chief B Suresh said.

Meanwhile, a senior engineer said, "It would mostly go to Anekal taluk and peripheral areas. But nothing has been finalised. We are presently utilising 19 tmcft of Cauvery water." Another senior engineer said, "Another 10 tmcft of water has been earmarked under Cauvery Water Supply Scheme Stage V and that will go to 110 villages in seven CMCs and one TMC brought under the BBMP in 2007."

The DyCM said the government has made all preparations to present the Mekedatu balancing reservoir project before the CWMA. "Our officers have proposed discussions on the Mekedatu project during the authority's 89th meeting. The authority has assured them of discussing the project at the next meeting," he said. They will also appeal to the apex court to give permission to implement the project, he added.

Shivakumar said Tamil Nadu wants 300 to 400 tmcft water even during the distress year. But inflows into the KRS reservoir have completely stopped.

HC directs BAI to form rules for sanction of tournaments

ENS @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court directed the Badminton Association of India (BAI) to formulate guidelines for consideration of applications filed by other entities seeking sanction to conduct tournaments for registered players or coaches, in terms of Clause 21 of the bylaws of the BAI.

The association should form the rules in consultation with the Badminton World Federation (BWF).

Justice R Devdas passed the order while disposing of the petitions filed by Bitsport Private Limited, promoter of the Grand Prix Badminton League, and two others regarding sportspersons' right to participate in a tournament conducted by an entity.

"Care should be taken to make provision in the guidelines to allow unseeded players and/or players ranked below 50 in the international circuit, to participate in such tournaments which will be in the interest many such players who aspire to compete in the international level," the court said.

The court also said the guidelines should be formulated and published within six months.

Apex court stay on appointing priests in 'agamic' temples to continue

JAISON WILSON @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Wednesday refused to vacate or modify its last month interim order on maintaining the existing condition on the appointment of 'archakars' (priests) in temples under the ancient 'agamic' tradition in Tamil Nadu.

A bench of Justices A S Bopanna and M M Sundresh prima facie did not agree to the state government's argument that it is entitled to the appointment of archakars which is a secular function.

The apex court also said that it is not going to stay the pending proceedings before the Madras High Court on the issue.

The top court pointed out that the argument is that the state government is not following the procedures prescribed under 'agama' traditions in appointing the priests in temples of a particular denomination.

NO CHANGE IN STATUS QUO: SC

A bench of Justices A S Bopanna and M M Sundresh said the argument is that the state is not following the procedures prescribed under agama traditions in appointing priests in temples of a particular denomination

"Let our status quo order continue..," the bench remarked while listing the matter for January 25 next year.

During the hearing, senior advocate Dushyant Dave, representing the state, prayed to vacate the September stay order of the bench passed on a batch of pleas.

The petitioners had moved the apex court contending that Tamil Nadu is interfering with the hereditary scheme of appointing 'archakars' in 'agama temples' by allowing those from other denominations to become 'archakars' after completing a one-year certificate course in training schools run by the state government.

The 'agamas' are a collection of tantric literature of Hindu schools and there are three branches – 'Shaiva, Vaishnava and Shakta.'

During the hearing, Dave said the apex court's stay order would affect filling of 2,405 vacant posts and candidates who had completed the training under relevant agamas and cause difficulty in performing rituals at the temples. He also prayed that the apex court can check whether the government order is valid or not as it is just about training.

EXTENDED FOOD SCHEME RAISES POLL CODE QUESTION

ALL parties promise major sops before elections, but this was a bumper one. A few days ago the prime minister announced while campaigning in Chhattisgarh that the government would extend the free foodgrains scheme announced during the pandemic—the Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana (PMGKAY)—for 800 million poor people for another five years. No populist measure works better than free food and this one is likely to have a strong bearing on the state elections in progress. Before the pandemic, heavily subsidised foodgrains were distributed under the National Food Security Act (NFSA). When the pandemic struck, PMGKAY added to it by providing 5 kg of foodgrains per person per month for free. The scheme was then amalgamated into the National Food Security Act in December 2022 and extended by a year. It was to end next month.

The five-year extension has caught even those in government by surprise. It is a mega scheme covering 60 percent of the population for five years. Given how these things work, the PMGKAY is likely to become a permanent feature. At the current procurement prices, it is expected to cost the exchequer ₹2 lakh crore a year. The government has been denying the extension would have any major fiscal impact. But the fiscal deficit for the first half of this financial year has already increased over last year.

The extension has thrown up serious questions. The government has routinely denied that poverty is a serious problem. It has claimed that 135 million people have been lifted out of poverty over the last five years. But then isn't extending a free foodgrains scheme to so many people an admission that poverty continues unabated? The World Bank says extreme poverty in India (defined as an income of $2.15 a day) had fallen from 39.9 percent in 2004 to 12.7 percent in 2019. If that is the case, does it justify giving free foodgrains to such a large part of the population? The fact is poverty numbers are largely underestimated; so is the number pushed into poverty during the pandemic. Besides, as much as 40 percent of our population is outside the NFSA net. So continuing with the free food scheme is justified. The other question is political. The opposition is now complaining that the announcement of the scheme's extension in a poll-bound state violated the model code of conduct. The Election Commission's decision would be interesting.

EASE RURAL DISTRESS TO AVOID CHILD MARRIAGES

KARNATAKA has seen a distressing rise in the number of child marriages over the past few years, prompting the government to set up a taskforce to keep this trend in check. There was an alarming spike during the Covid years—from 111 cases reported in 2019-20 to 276 in 2020-2021 and 418 in 2021-22. It was a 300 percent jump in three years, while the national average increase was only 34 percent. A drought has now worsened the situation; crop loss and lack of employment are driving families out of villages into cities and many parents prefer to get their daughters married before migrating out.

The phenomenon is prevalent in districts across the state, with high numbers reported from Chamarajanagar, Bidar, Hassan, Yadgir and Raichur, and even from the more progressive and prosperous districts of Mysuru and Mandya. Ballari district has taskforces in all taluks to keep a vigilant eye on such marriages. Between April 2017 and March 2022, the Karnataka government received tip-offs on 10,352 attempts of child marriage and managed to prevent 9,261 of them. In 2021-22 alone, 2,819 complaints were filed, pointing to the distress during the pandemic. Conviction under the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act of 2006 attracts a jail term and a heavy fine, but the conviction rate is merely one in ten, encouraging parents to conduct such nuptials in secrecy.

It is disheartening that the girl child has to bear the brunt of circumstances—first the pandemic and now a natural calamity is robbing young girls of their childhood and education. The number of school dropouts shot up during the pandemic and this disruption in education too led to a rise in child marriages. Hapless parents turn to marriage as a means to ease their own burden, compounded by poverty, illiteracy and superstition. Early marriages have a lifelong impact on the health of child brides who are forced to become mothers early, leaving them weak and vulnerable. While it is surprising that such a practice is on the rise in a literate state like Karnataka, it is bound to set rural society back by many decades. It is the responsibility of both the government and civil society to put an end to this trend. The government must come up with measures to alleviate rural distress and ensure that all girls are back in the classroom.

QUICK TAKE

MIND AI ENGINES BEHIND FAKES

THE government has said the IT Act is robust enough to deal with deepfakes like Rashmika Mandanna's. The worry is about the absence of any regulation on the fast-learning artificial intelligence engines behind such fakes. Just over a month ago, a deepfaked voice recording purportedly of a leading Slovakian politician was released days before a tight election; it did harm before it could be debunked. Last week, the White House issued a comprehensive order to ensure AI safety, including red-testing AIs for ensuring security and watermarking government content for assuring authenticity; the European Union and China have proposed their own regulations. India needs to do the same before it is too late.

Responsible spy agencies take care of their informants. Whoever employed the Indian navy veterans languishing in Qatar reneged on that code of honour

TAKING CARE OF THE QATAR EIGHT

ESPIONAGE agencies that use human intelligence—HUMINT in their professional lexicon—to gather secret information have a fundamental responsibility to protect and look after their "assets" and not discard them like soiled toilet paper after they have been used by those agencies. By this yardstick, if the allegations—which are shrouded in mystery as of now—against eight Indian navy veterans sentenced to death in Qatar last month were credible enough to stand trial in Doha's Court of First Instance, whichever spy agency allegedly used their services abdicated their responsibility to these men by the code of honour in undercover work.

The big boys in cloak-and-dagger activities, notably the Soviet KGB of yore and America's CIA, seldom abandon their assets. First of all, they have robust standard operating procedures (SOPs) to keep their assets from harm's way while their espionage through them is underway. Spying is a risky business and anything can go wrong at any time. On occasions when this has happened, there have been spy exchanges between the big powers involved. Such mutual transfers of secret agents have been immortalised by the Steven Spielberg film, Bridge of Spies. Accounts of international espionage have made John le Carré novels unputdownable until they have been read from cover to cover.

In December 2013, Sangeeta Richard, a maid working at the residence of India's Deputy Consul General in New York sought asylum in the US after she was suspected of being a spy at the compound of India's permanent mission to the United Nations. She is believed to have been uncovered by security at the mission and she immediately cooked up a story of having been enslaved and tortured by Devyani Khobragade, her diplomat-employer. The Americans did not abandon this maid but gave her asylum under US laws against human trafficking. There is little doubt that she had been trained in advance by her handlers to deal with such an eventuality. In defence of their action, the US government used the New York police department to arrest Khobragade in violation of her sacrosanct diplomatic immunity. Consider the extent to which Americans would go to protect an asset, as India believes Sangeeta to have been.

More was to follow. Sangeeta's husband, Philip, and their two children were spirited out of India in a flash by the US embassy in New Delhi which issued them T-visas before Indian agencies could close in on them. Ordinary Indian travellers to the US normally have to wait for months—years since the Covid pandemic—to get an appointment for a visa interview. But special treatment was reserved by the Americans for an asset like the Richard family. India expelled a CIA officer at the US embassy whose credit card was used for buying the air tickets to New York for Sangeeta's husband and children. There were many more layers to this episode, but this article is not about those. The episode is cited only to show that unlike the CIA, the alleged handlers of the naval officers let them down if, indeed, the case against them at the Doha court had a shred of credibility.

Logic and common sense dictate that Indians would be the preferred recruits if Israel wanted to conduct an espionage operation in Qatar. South Asians are ubiquitous in all the Gulf states and could possibly move through sensitive places without attracting attention the way a white man or a Chinese national would do. Twenty years ago, when Israel had few contacts with the Gulf unlike today, an Israeli citizen of Indian descent—a businessman who was so prominent in Tel Aviv that most visiting Indian VIPs met him—told me a story. He was picked by Mossad and sent on a spying mission to Mecca on a fake Indian passport and an assumed Muslim name. Although a private citizen, he was trained by Mossad for this mission, which he claimed to have completed successfully.

Reports in well-respected international media have suggested that Israel spied on Qatar's navy with the help of these eight hapless Indians and the domestic media has echoed these reports. This has led to a widespread belief in India that Israel holds the key to this case's mysteries. Yet it runs counter to the SOP of any efficient or effective spy agency to use eight persons working together in one operation. Mossad is a highly trained professional outfit which would not be foolhardy to mount such a mission that is guaranteed to fail. Serious intelligence gathering is not a partnership firm or a private limited company. It is not even a cosy club of colleagues. According to veterans in the global intelligence community, if indeed Israel tempted anyone to give them classified data from the Doha branch of an Omani defence firm that was overseeing the induction of Italian submarines into Qatar's navy, it would have been a lone wolf operation. The idea that as many as eight men were involved in such an amateurish effort, as if it were a game of Blackjack in a casino, would be laughed out of court in the US or Europe after seeking expert testimony from veterans.

Since courts in Qatar have little experience in handling espionage cases—unlike in the West throughout the Cold War decades—it is too much to expect a fair trial by international standards for the eight Indians upon appeal. Any appeal would go to an Adlia (civil) court, which is not subordinate to the Emir or his cabinet under Qatar's 2004 Constitution, unlike in other Gulf states. An appeal, although pro forma, should be made to a higher civil court in due course. However, only political intervention at the highest level from New Delhi can get the Emir to pardon these Indians or to commute their sentences, followed by their transfer as prisoners to India, for which bilateral provisions exist between India and Qatar.

ADOPT ANDHRA PENSION MODEL TO PREVENT FINANCIAL DOOM

LAVU SRI KRISHNA DEVARAYALU

Member of Parliament from Narasaraopet

SOUMYODEEP HALDER

Associate, policy engagements, Swaniti Global

THE National Pension Scheme (NPS) currently serves as the framework for government employees' pensions. Due to the performance of the markets over the past two decades, the market-linked scheme appears attractive. Until 2019, the NPS returned a whopping 13-14 percent on its invested corpus across asset classes. However, the risk component surfaces during economic downturns or bear runs. During events such as a pandemic or recession, the invested corpus could slide in value and be unable to service the pension payouts.

Let's delve into India's pension structure, its risks and the NPS's shortcomings—and evaluate whether Andhra Pradesh's guaranteed pension system (GPS) could be a potential solution.

Pension schemes are structured on the interplay of benefits and contributions. The defined benefit scheme guarantees employees a fixed pension based on a predetermined formula without them having to allocate a portion of their salaries during active employment. The defined contribution scheme involves employees contributing a fixed amount from their salaries, with the pension depending on the total contributions and the returns generated on it.

The NPS is a defined contribution scheme whereas the model preceding it was a defined benefit scheme called the old pension scheme (OPS).

For government employees, in the case of OPS, the risk of servicing the pension rested squarely on the government as it had to allocate the pension from its tax and non-tax revenues. While the pension payouts were fixed and capped—not higher than a predetermined sum based on the last drawn salary—these were guaranteed by the government. Over time, this caused a colossal fiscal issue.

The Centre's pension bill grew from ₹3,272 crore in 1990-91 to ₹1,90,886 crore in 2020-21—a 58-fold increase. For states, the total pension bill rose 125-fold from ₹3,131 crore to ₹3,86,001 crore in the same period. The issue was exacerbated for states with limited tax bases such as Bihar and Himachal Pradesh, where pension liabilities constituted over half the tax revenue.

The two consequences of unsustainable pension liabilities are financial bankruptcy of the state, and increased borrowings and higher taxation. To avoid this, the government was compelled to introduce NPS in 2004. Central government employees commencing service on or after January 1, 2004, were mandatorily placed under NPS. Gradually, all state governments except West Bengal followed suit.

Under the NPS, employees contribute 10 percent of their salary and the government matches this (now increased to 14 percent). These combined contributions form the pension corpus, which is invested and compounds over the course of an employee's tenure. The aggregate returns—hinged upon the performance of the invested corpus—can be partly withdrawn in lump sum, while the remaining can be reinvested for recurring annuitised monthly payments. NPS eliminated the need for the government to fund the pension entirely out of its revenue receipts.

EXPRESS

The fight between the National Pension Scheme and Old Pension Scheme has become political. The Guaranteed Pension Scheme tackles concerns about both

However, government employees faced a dual conundrum with the NPS. First, they had to fund their own future pension payments. Second, the NPS did not provide assured payouts. The absence of economic certainty eroded their trust in NPS, leaving them exposed to potential financial insecurities at the time of retirement due to unforeseen market oscillations, as demonstrated by American pensioners losing their savings during the 2008 crisis.

These issues made NPS a full-fledged election issue. The Aam Aadmi Party won the 2022 assembly elections by promising to restore the OPS. Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh announced the restoration of the OPS. Today, the OPS vs NPS issue has transcended economic rationale and is pitched as a mainstream political issue, the fiscal ramifications of which are disastrous.

In this context, Andhra Pradesh's GPS Act of 2023 assumes importance. The politically agnostic state government has refused to band with either of the two national political blocs. It has focused on constructively engaging with the Centre to optimise AP's developmental interests.

With the state fiscal deficit estimated to touch 8 percent by 2050 if the OPS is restored, the government recognises the perilous financial consequences. Parallely, it acknowledges the concerns about the NPS. After much deliberation, it struck a delicate balance between the OPS and NPS by implementing the GPS.

The GPS is premised on the NPS model but incorporates a defined benefit element. In the event of a shortfall between the net pension amounts under NPS and OPS, the AP government will top up the amount needed to ensure that employees draw a pension that is 50 percent of their last drawn salary. This alleviates employees' concerns about market downturns and provides a guaranteed pension amount. The GPS retains the contribution framework of NPS, only stepping in to fund the gap between the NPS and OPS pension amounts.

In financial terms, the GPS operates as a principal-protected market-linked debenture (PP-MLD). The reward propensity of an equity instrument is better than a fixed income instrument, but the risk exposure for equity is greater. A PP-MLD balances the risk-reward ratio. The debenture is linked to an underlying index such as the Nifty 50. At maturity, the return will be linked to the movement of the index. It also ensures the investor does not lose if the index slides down. This provides the cushion of a fixed income instrument and the reward prospects of an equity instrument.

Government pensions provide social security to a small fraction of the actively employed, leaving approximately 86 percent of the Indian workforce in the unorganised sector without any formal safety net. In a country with such economic inequities, states spending up to half or more of their tax revenues to support a tiny minority reeks of financial ineptitude, moral irresponsibility and fiscal imprudence. Given the current and forecasted fiscal climate, the Centre and states cannot go back to the OPS, however politically opportune it may appear. With GPS ironing out most of the teething issues that the NPS suffered from, states can either emulate it or stare at a definite financial winter.

The previous 2+2 dialogue was held in the US in April. "The 2+2 will enable a high-level review of progress being made in cross-cutting aspects of defence and security cooperation, technology value chain collaborations and people-to-people ties," according to a statement by the ministry of external affairs (MEA).

The four ministers, during the meeting, will speak on various issues which could include the conflict between Israel and Hamas, Russia-Ukraine, Canada-India diplomatic row, the Indo Pacific and strengthening defence and diplomatic ties.

The meeting comes at a time when two major conflicts are taking place, even though it doesn't have any direct impact on India or the US.

The Quad will be discussed too and India will try and firm up talks on whether the next Quad Summit (which is to be hosted by India) would be held in January 2024.

"If President Biden confirms his participation PM Kishida and PM Albanese too would work their way around it and attend it. The possible date being considered is January 24th," said a source.

In their joint statement the ministers, reaffirmed their dedication to promoting regional stability and prosperity, with an inclusive regional architecture, abiding by the rule of law, the freedom of navigation and overflight, peaceful resolution of disputes, and ASEAN centrality. They also reiterated the importance of adherence to international law to meet challenges to the rules-based order, including in the South China Sea.

Army seeks to modernise transport fleet

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE Armed forces have initiated a process to upgrade and strengthen the transport capability of the three services. On Wednesday, the government issued two separate requests for information (RFI): one for the procurement of about 5,000 lorries for the three forces and another to procure 2,500 trucks for the Indian Army to be operated in hills, high altitudes, cross-country, and desert terrain.

The vehicles to be procured will be General Service (GS) Vehicles used as load carriers for transporting troops, cargo, ammunition, and other supplies. The process aims to upgrade the existing fleet and address existing deficiencies.

The lorries are expected to have a payload capacity of 5 tonnes and 7.5 tonnes. The 5-tonne lorries will be deployed in hills, high altitudes, cross-country, and desert terrain, while the 7.5-tonne vehicles will be operated in plains.

According to the RFI, these vehicles should be equipped with 4x4 wheel drive and be capable of operating in various terrains and climatic conditions prevalent in the country.

It is expected that the request for proposal (RFP) will be issued within the next six months.

As per the RFI, the overall dimensions and weight of the vehicle should allow it to cross a Class 18 bridge and be transportable by the broad gauge section of the railway. It should also have a facility for easy and quick conversion to a flatbed configuration by removing side walls, superstructure, and tailboard.

The vehicles must have a carrying capacity of 34 soldiers on foldable side-facing seats with their personal weapons and equipment.

The vehicle should be fuel-efficient, with a fuel consumption rate of not less than five km per liter, and the average engine life should not be less than 150,000 km or 15 years, whichever comes earlier.

For the procurement of the 2,500 trucks for the Indian Army, a separate RFI was issued. The plan is to procure around 2,500 trucks for use as General Service load carriers with a payload capacity of 2.5 tonnes in hills, high altitudes, cross-country, plains, and desert terrain, and under various climatic conditions prevalent in the country.

The trucks should have a carrying capacity of 14 soldiers on foldable side-facing seats with their personal weapons and equipment.

Cong says probe into Mahadev app violation of code of conduct

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THE Congress on Wednesday sought the immediate intervention of the Election Commission of India (ECI) to restrain the "misuse" of the Enforcement Directorate by the BJP-led Union government during the Assembly elections.

A delegation of Congress leaders comprising Abhishek Manu Singhvi, Tariq Anwar, Udit Raj, Vineet Punia and Aman Panwar met the ECI and submitted the memorandum in this regard.

Briefing reporters after the meeting, Singhvi said, they brought to the notice of the Commission how the "level playing field", which was described by the Supreme Court as the basic structure, was not being maintained by the misuse of the ED for elections in Chhattisgarh and other states. "This was a serious assault on the basic structure and under such circumstances, the constitution and democracy were threatened," he said.

Referring to the Mahadev App case, Singhvi pointed out that the Chhattisgarh police had already taken action with about 500 arrests and seizure of hundreds of laptops, mobile phones and other devices. Chhattisgarh Chief Minister had said on record that some people from Chhattisgarh were involved and they should be arrested. On August 30, the Chief Minister formally demanded a ban on the Mahadev App, but nothing happened, the Congress MP pointed out.

Singhvi also questioned the union IT minister's statement that the app was not banned since there was no request from the state government. "Why does the central government need permission from the state government when it was the jurisdiction of the central government only," he asked..

Singhvi referred to the ED's stand that the matter was 'subject to investigation,' which means it will be probed in future. "The ED has been repeatedly claiming that it has proof, but the names it has been taking are not in the chargesheet. If something seriously wrong was taking place, why didn't the ED act during the last six months and why did it come to action just a week before Chhattisgarh polls," he asked.

NCW chief, Priyanka Chaturvedi battle it out over Nitish remarks

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

THE chairperson of National Commission for Women (NCW), Rekha Sharma, strongly criticised Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar on Wednesday for his remarks in the state assembly regarding the role of women in population growth, likening it to dialogue from a "C-grade movie."

Sharma called for the Bihar assembly speaker to take action against Kumar for his comments on the importance of women's education in controlling the population and demanded an apology from him.

During his speech, the Bihar CM emphasized the significance of educating women to manage population growth and presented a vivid description of how an educated woman can "restrain" her husband during sexual intercourse. Following a backlash, Kumar issued an apology, acknowledging that his words may have hurt someone.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi, without directly naming-Kumar, noted that no politician from the INDIA alliance had objected to the Bihar CM's remarks. During a political rally in Madhya Pradesh's Guna, he criticised Kumar's actions and questioned if they could stoop so low.

In a letter addressed to Bihar speaker Awadh Bihari Choudhary, the NCW chief strongly condemned the use of derogatory and vulgar statements by individuals in responsible positions, demonstrating extreme disrespect towards women.

A war of words also erupted between Sharma and Shiv Sena (UBT) MP Priyanka Chaturvedi over Kumar's remarks. Sharma demanded an immediate and clear apology from Kumar on microblogging site X, tagging other women leaders including Chaturvedi.

Chaturvedi responded by stating that selective silence and action are detrimental to the non-partisan nature of Sharma's position. "My dear biased, politically motivated Madam, I do unequivocally condemn any language used for women which is derogatory-irrespective of my politics… I am also certain that the CM will revisit his usage of words. Unfortunately as far as I recall, whenever we expected you to stand up for women, you chose selective silence and selective action — doing a huge disservice to your chair as NCW," said Chaturvedi.

Sharma fired back, reminding Chaturvedi of her own inaction in the past when presented with evidence against a leader from her party.

Chaturvedi urged Sharma to prioritise her duty to the chair and take action rather than engaging in a personal feud.

El-Nino effect: IMD predicts warmer winter, heavier rains

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

THE Indian Meteorological Department (IMD) and the World Meteorological Organisation (WMO) have concurred that the upcoming winter will be warmer than normal and also indicate a bountiful monsoon next year due to the ongoing El Niño, which is expected to last at least until April 2024.

El Niño, or Southern Oscillation (ENSO) is a naturally occurring climatic event synonymous with a poor southwest monsoon in India. It will further spike in temperature both on land and in the ocean. Unlike the below-normal monsoon this year, the monsoon in 2024 is likely to be normal and above normal, as stated by Dr. Mrutyunjay Mohapatra, Director-General of Meteorology at IMD. This year, India received only around 94% of its normal average rainfall, which was also uneven and impacted agricultural activities.

El Niño is related to the warming of the ocean surface in the central and eastern tropical Pacific Ocean, especially near Peru, South America. However, it has been observed that human-induced climate change has increased its frequency. Due to El Niño, the sea surface temperature varied between 0.5°C to 1.5°C during May to September this year. El Niño occurs on average every two to seven years and typically lasts nine to 12 months. It is connected to poor monsoons in India and drought-like conditions in Australia.

Peak in Nov-Jan

A recent analysis by WMO shows that the El Niño event is likely to peak in November-January 2024, with its impact reducing in April 2024. This will make way for good annual southwest monsoon winds to reach the Indian peninsula. According to WMO, there is a 90% likelihood that El Niño will persist throughout the upcoming northern hemisphere winter and southern hemisphere summer.

IIA researchers record rare auroral activity at Hanle in Ladakh

BOSKY KHANNA@Bengaluru

IN a rare phenomenon, researchers from Indian Institute of Astrophysics (IIA) have recorded auroral activity — which is normally witnessed over the North Pole — at Hanle and Merak in Ladakh through the all-sky cameras on November 5.

Researchers explained that the first was recorded on April 23, 2023, and it was the largest. This one of November 5 was the second largest and was recorded from 10 pm. Hanle is the first Dark Sky Reserve in India and is located 4500 metres above sea level.

"The sky was clear and so the cameras were able to record them very clearly. The red auroral light could be seen towards the northern horizon from 10 PM till midnight of and its intensity peaked around 10:40 pm," Dorje Angchuk, the Engineer-in-Charge, Indian Astronomical Observatory (IAO), Hanle, told The New Indian Express.

An aurora is a glorious curtain of light that is usually seen at high latitudes like the Scandinavian countries, and they are not expected to occur at lower latitudes. They occur due to the interaction between the Earth's magnetosphere and the incoming solar wind that carries charged particles and magnetic fields.

A Stable Auroral Arc (SAA) is red in colour as opposed to the usual green-blue curtains of light seen from high latitudes, which is why Angchuk explained that it was a rare phenomena, but not exactly an aurora like one witnesses from close to the North Pole.

A similar camera had also recorded the same in Merak, on the banks of Pangong Tso in Ladakh (which is the proposed site of the National Large Solar Telescope), though it was limited by higher mountains towards the North.

IIA researchers explained that this particular auroral activity is linked to the Coronal Mass Ejection (CME) that occurred on the sun two days ago.

P Vamareddy, Assistant Professor, IIA, said, "Such activities do occur once in two days. But we do not get to see it because we are located at a lower latitude and do not have the adequate technology to see it. In this case, the intensity of the light was higher and so it was visible from Hanle, which is at 33 degree North. It was a 140 degree field of view."

Hanle is at the centre of the Hanle Dark Sky Reserve, and attracts the public for astro-tourism due to its dark blue, clear skies. "We look forward to studying many more auroral activities from Hanle, especially when the Sun is in its active period," said Professor Annapurni Subramaniam, Director of Indian Institute of Astrophysics.

'Bidi workers prone to miscarriages, infertility'

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

WOMEN bidi workers, who constitute the majority of the industry's workforce, suffer from decreased fertility, increased frequency of miscarriages and higher risk of cervical cancer, according to the latest study.

Not only that, their children are at higher risk of suffering from low birth weight and stunted growth, noted the study, conducted by The George Institute for Global Health and published in BMJ Global Health.

It observed that bidi workers and their families are exposed to harmful substances during bidi rolling, which jeopardises their health.

Bidi, an indigenous smoking tobacco product made of tobacco flakes rolled in 'tendu' leaves and tied with a thread, is the most smoked product with 85 per cent market share. Most of the bidi rolling work is done by women from homes, which continuously exposes them to nicotine, tar, unburnt tobacco dust, and other toxic particles that pass through skin and throat.

The study found that while the pregnant bidi workers were at an increased risk of anaemia and pregnancy-induced hypertension, there was a higher frequency of neonatal deaths, stillbirths and premature births in comparison with non-bidi workers.

The study said they have found evidence that across 14 Indian states, health hazards in bidi workers and their families show a very high prevalence of respiratory (52.5 per cent), musculoskeletal (87), gastrointestinal (70), neurological (60), skin (37) and other conditions across the organ system.

"Due to this unorganised nature of bidi work, there is lack of awareness on using safety measures such as wearing protective gears like masks and gloves, and washing hands, which leads to prolonged exposure to tobacco dust in bidi workers," the study said.

"It is essential to provide alternative livelihoods, and safe and protective working environment, and cover bidi workers under various social security provisions to alleviate the harmful effect of bidi making at home," it said.

It is important to shift bidi-making away from home and strengthen existing regulations and promulgation of new provisions, including India's Occupational Safety, Health, and Working Conditions Code 2020.

Quoting another study, the authors said, "India reported the relative risk for all-cause mortality among bidi smokers was 64% higher as compared with never users of tobacco.

Bidi workers are known to be underpaid, with their wages not increasing substantially even though profits of the bidi industry have increased.

The bidi industry is estimated to employ about 4.9 million people. It supports nearly 2.2 million people from the tribal Indian communities who are plucking and selling tendu leaves, predominantly in the unorganised sector.

Continuous exposure to nicotine, tar, tobacco dust

Most of the bidi rolling work is done by women from homes, which continuously exposes them to nicotine, tar, unburnt tobacco dust, and other toxic particles that pass through skin and throat.

Tribals ignored under BJP rule: Rahul

English education a key talking point in poll campaign across tribal belts of Chhattisgarh

EJAZ KAISER @Raipur

Rahul Gandhi addresses a public rally in Jashpur, Chhattisgarh | EXPRESS

'BJP undermines importance of English'

Rahul Gandhi said that the BJP talks about Hindi as the most essential language and undermines the importance of regional Chhattisgarhiya dialect and English.

ENGLISH education has emerged as a key talk point in the election campaign across the tribal belts of Chhattisgarh, with the Congress and the BJP articulating contrary views on the subject. Both the parties are keen to link English with the future of the tribal communities.

Addressing two public rallies in Jashpur and Ambikapur, ahead of the second phase of polling on Wednesday, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi slammed BJP and accused it of discouraging tribals to learn English while they send their own children to English medium schools.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi, in his recent public meetings in Chhattisgarh, had declared that the courses on MBBS and engineering will be taught in mother tongue Hindi if BJP forms the government. "Why should students from remote areas be left behind owing to the English language?" Modi asked.

Rahul countered him, saying that the BJP talks about Hindi as the most essential and undermines the importance of regional Chhattisgarhiya dialect and English. "The Congress government has opened top class English medium schools for the poor students, so that they can dream big," he reiterated.

He said the BJP does not wish the poor and tribals to dream big for their future. "We hug you (tribal) but the BJP leaders urinate on you (recollecting a video of an old incident of a BJP leader allegedly urinating on a tribal labourer in MP) and snatch your rights," he said.

Rahul said that Congress, after retaining power in Chhattisgarh, will declare caste-census on the very first day and across the country if the party, along with INDIA alliance, wins the Lok Sabha polls.

He criticised the PM for calling himself as belonging to the OBC and in every speech speaking about the OBC welfare but when the Congress demands a caste-based census he then cites there is only caste, the poor.

Differentiating the word 'vanvasi' the leaders of saffron party often cites for tribals from the terminology 'adivasi' as spoken by Congress for the tribes, he said the BJP insults tribal communities as the expression vanvasi is also an attack on their culture, history and rights.

BJP says Gehlot concealed info in affidavit, files complaint

DECIDE

RAJESH ASNANI @Jaipur

A major controversy has erupted over the nomination papers filed by Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot for Jodhpur's Sardarpura seat. The BJP has formally complained to the Returning Officer in Jodhpur, alleging that Gehlot has concealed crucial information regarding his cases. BJP worker Ranjit Singh has accused Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot of providing incorrect information in the affidavit submitted by him for the Sardarpura assembly constituency.

Singh submitted this complaint online to Sardarpura (Jodhpur) Returning Officer Sanjay Kumar Basu on Tuesday. In his complaint, he claims that Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot provided incomplete information in the affidavit, and there is also a case registered against him at the Gandhinagar police station in Jaipur since 2015. The next court hearing is scheduled for November 24.

District Vice President Nathu Singh Rathore stated that they have requested action from the Returning Officer in this matter because providing incomplete information in the affidavit is a legal offense.

In accordance with standard procedure, the Returning Officer accepted Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot's nomination, along with those of other candidates, after scrutinising the nominations.

In his affidavit, Gehlot has listed four cases against himself. In addition to a defamation case filed by Union Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat, his name is also linked to a case involving land allotment by JDA to Soni Hospital.

Shivraj home turf swears by 'Mama', gets CM post or not

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@Budhani/Jait

Constituency WATCH BUDHANI

THE Budhani assembly constituency in Madhya Pradesh appears relatively unconcerned about whether the incumbent Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chauhan continues in his role or takes on a larger position in national politics. Situated about 70 kilometres away from the bustling city of Bhopal, Budhani and its people stand firmly behind their beloved 'Mama' (mother's brother) – a moniker that signifies Chauhan's significance.

Ashok Kumar Chauhan, a local shopkeeper in Shahganj, expressed unwavering support for Mama, acknowledging that while his re-election locally seems assured, the political landscape challenges him as the leader of his party and the incumbent CM in the state. Irrespective of his future role, they remain loyal to him.

In the forthcoming assembly elections, the Congress Party has nominated actor-turned-politician Vikram Mastal Sharma, also known as 'Hanuman' for his role in the TV serial 'Ramayana,' to challenge Mama.

Raju Saini, who runs a motel near the Budhani Trident factory, raised concerns about unemployment, education and inflation in the region. He questioned Chauhan's achievements in addressing these issues, emphasising the need for effective leadership in Delhi's corridors of power.

Similarly, Sharwan Kumar, a roadside garment shop owner, echoed the sentiment of change, stating that Mama will win but welcoming Modi's decision to assign him a larger national role.

Three first-time voters, Rupam Kumar, Rasul and Manish, credited Mama for local development and expressed their intent to vote for him regardless of his future as CM, supporting Modi's decisions.

In Mama's native village of Jait, residents mirrored these sentiments, showing faith in Modi's decisions. They regarded Mama as a valuable asset but expressed readiness for him to move to Delhi if the need arises.

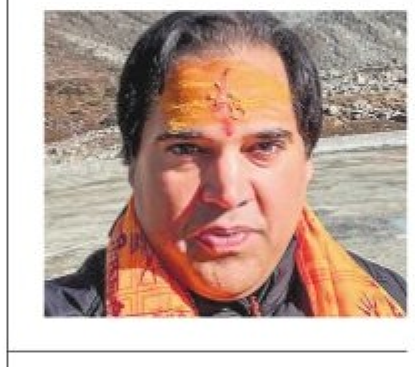
Rahul meets Varun at Kedarnath

Kedarnath on Tuesday witnessed the meeting of two cousins of the Gandhi family—Rahul Gandhi and Varun Gandhi—who are rarely seen in public, support different ideologies and belong to different parties. They met at the reception room of the Badrinath-Kedarnath temple when Rahul was preparing to return after completing a three-day religious tour. It is too early to comment whether the meeting between them was political (as Lok Sabha elections are approaching) or personal, sources added. In the last few years, the relations between the families of Rahul and Varun are improving. Priyanka, sister of Rahul, has been in touch with Varun's family.



ABVP dominates student union polls

The ABVP has once again dominated the student elections in Uttarakhand. The ABVP has won 327 posts, including 56 of student union president and 46 of general secretary in the recently held student union elections. National Students' Union of India, a student wing of Congress, bagged 218 posts, comprising 32 of the president and 27 of the general secretary. However, the AVBP suffered a setback at DAV PG College, one of the largest colleges in the state. Siddharth Agarwal of the Aryan Students Union defeated ABVP's Yashwant Panwar for the post of president.

ED summons Abhishek in teachers' scam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

THE ED summoned Trinamool Congress's second-in command Abhishek Banerjee asking him to appear before the central agency at its Salt Lake office on Thursday in connection with alleged irregularities in recruitment in state-aided schools.

The party confirmed that Abhishek would appear before the ED alleging that the BJP is playing "target politics" using central agencies.

Abhishek was questioned for nine hours on September 13, the day scheduled for oppositions bloc's meet in Mumbai. The TMC alleged that Abhishek's interrogation on the scheduled day was an attempt to prevent him from participating in the meeting and was a testament to the pivotal role the Bengal's ruling party plays in forming opposition unity. "The BJP is doing vendetta politics to harass the leaders of non-saffron parties' camp ahead of the Lok Sabha elections," said Shashi Panja, TMC spokesperson.

Setback to Hardik as Guj court refuses to drop case

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@Ahmedabad

IN a setback to Gujarat BJP MLA Hardik Patel, a rural court in Ahmedabad on Wednesday dismissed his plea to drop the charges in a case of misconduct with the police.

The 30-year-old leader, who rose to prominence after leading a Patidar movement in the state in 2015, faces nearly 30 cases, including two of sedition. Several of these cases were registered against him when he was spearheading the agitation for granting the reservation status to the Patel community, which at times turned violent.

The case of misconduct towards police was filed when he was to fast for the reservation demand. Nine persons, including Patel, were named in FIR lodged at Nikol police station in Ahmedabad.

Patel said he will now have to approach the Sessions Court for relief.

Earlier this year, Patel was exonerated of charges in a five-year-old case by the Chief Judicial Magistrate court in Gujarat's Jamnagar. The case was related to a political speech during an event, which allegedly violated the terms set by the authorities before allowing the event.

Patel had joined the Congress after the 2017 Assembly elections and was appointed its working president. However, he resigned from Congress in 2022, before the Vidhan Sabha elections and joined the BJP. He was elected as an MLA from Ahmedabad's Viramgam Assembly constituency on a BJP ticket.

Maha row: Bhujbal ups ante on CM as he casts doubt on panel's report

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

CHHAGAN Bhujbal, a senior minister in the BJP-led Maharashtra government, expressed his distrust on Wednesday over the Justice Sandeep Shinde committee appointed by CM Eknath Shinde to scrutinise the old records and documents of Maratha-Kunbi and vice versa, for reservations.

Bhujbal said that the committee's statements have been inconsistent, and they have little faith in it. Initially, the committee had stated that it could not go to Hyderabad to study and scrutinise the Nizam era records of the Marathawada region due to the ensuing elections in Telangana.

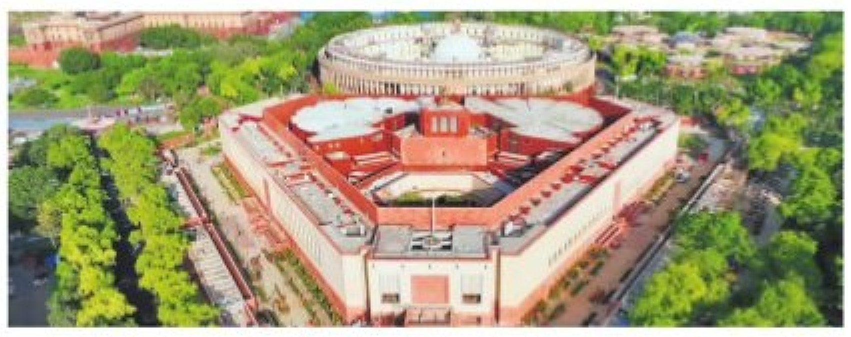
However, after a few days, when Maratha quota leader Manoj Jarange Patil refused to withdraw his agitations, the committee came up with the numbers of Kunbi caste. It said that they got 11,500 references, and while in the cabinet meeting, the same committee said that they got 13,500 references of Kunbi in old records.

Bhujbal has questioned which numbers they should consider as the truth issued by the Justice Shinde committee. The ambit of the committee was initially limited to the Marathwada region, but it has now expanded to the entire state. It is opening offices in every district and issuing Kunbi certificates to whoever comes to them.

Bhujbal has called this unconstitutional and unfortunate. He has also alleged that there is a big conspiracy to end reservations of small OBC castes by adding Maratha-Kunbi like strong caste in OBC category. Bhujbal has further added that there is a double conspiracy to end the OBC reservations in the state. On one hand, Maratha-Kunbi with the help of the Justice Shinde committee and government are pushing themselves into OBC by declaring themselves as Kunbi, while on the other side, the Maratha activists filed petitions in the Bombay High Court to review the existing OBC reservations.

Maharashtra CM Eknath Shinde has warned his cabinet colleagues not to air their controversial views in public and asked them before speaking with the media, they should resolve the issues at the government forum.

Parl's winter session from second week of Dec



PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

THE winter session of Parliament is likely to begin from the second week of December and conclude before Christmas, according to sources.

The government may be looking to pass the three significant bills to replace the Indian Penal Code, the Criminal Procedure Code, and the Evidence Act during the session. The standing committee on Home Affairs recently adopted the bills.

The session may also see fireworks as the result of five state elections is expected to dominate the debates. The result of the state elections is scheduled to be announced on December 3. The government may also be looking to pass another bill pending in Parliament regarding the appointment of the Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) and Election Commissioners (ECs).

Though the bill was introduced during the monsoon session, the government did not push for its passage during the special session of Parliament, after stiff opposition from various parties and former CECs as it seeks to bring on par the status of the CEC and ECs with that of the cabinet secretary.

Though the winter session of Parliament normally begins in the third week of November and concludes by December 25, this session could be a shorter version. It was learnt that the government is mulling to conclude the interim Budget Session before the Lok Sabha elections 2024. In the recently held special session of Parliament, the government passed the Women's Reservation Bill 2023.

VERY HAPPY TO KNOW LOKPAL EXISTS: MAHUA

LOKPAL ORDERED CBI PROBE AGAINST TMC MP: DUBEY

BJP MP Nishikant Dubey said on Wednesday the Lokpal has ordered a CBI probe against Mahua Moitra for alleged corruption. However, there was no official confirmation. "On my complaint, Lokpal today ordered a CBI inquiry against Mahua Moitra for indulging in corruption," he said

PANEL MAY SEEK ACTION AGAINST BSP MP DANISH ALI

The panel may flag the misconduct of some opposition members during its proceedings. The panel may suggest action against BSP member Danish Ali, who was loudest in his attack on the panel over the alleged "personal" questions to Moitra

MEANWHILE, Dubey claimed that the anti-graft agency Lokpal has ordered a CBI probe against Moitra on the basis of cash-for-query allegations levelled by him and Supreme Court lawyer Jai Anant Dehadrai.

Moitra shot back saying the CBI should first file an FIR to probe the alleged coal scam by the Adani Group. Dubey had filed a complaint on October 21 with the Lokpal against Moitra, accusing her of taking bribes.

However, there was no official word from the Lokpal. The TMC MP said she was "very happy to know" that the Lokpal exists. "For the media calling me- my answer: 1. CBI needs to first file FIR on ₹13,000 crore Adani coal scam. 2. National security issue is how dodgy FPI owned (inc Chinese & UAE) Adani firms buying Indian ports and airports with the Home Minister office's clearance. CBI welcome to come, count my shoes," she said.

Leh apex body rejects land allotment policy, says against interests of locals

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

Aims to promote economic growth

The industrial land allotment policy is an important initiative aimed at promoting economic growth and development in the region, which was carved out of Jammu and Kashmir after bifurcation of erstwhile J&K state and abrogation of Article 370, said officials.

THE Ladakh Union Territory has unveiled a draft of its Industrial Land Allotment Policy 2023 for the cold desert, allowing outside entrepreneurs to set up industrial units by investing in the manufacturing sector. However, the Leh Apex Body and Kargil Democratic Alliance – the amalgams of political parties, religious groups, traders and civil society members of Leh and Kargil districts respectively, have expressed serious reservations and said it is against interests of locals.

The industrial land allotment policy is an important initiative aimed at promoting economic growth and development in the region, which was carved out of Jammu and Kashmir after bifurcation of erstwhile J&K state and abrogation of Article 370 by centre on August 5, 2019, said officials.

"The main objective is to create employment opportunities, improve living standards of the local population, and promote overall economic development of the region," they said.

The policy shall remain in operation for 10 years from date of its adoption. However, it shall be reviewed from time to time based on a critical assessment of feedback from stakeholders.

According to the Industrial policy, for industrial units seeking investment in the Manufacturing sector, outside entrepreneurs may be permitted. However, preference may be given to the local entrepreneurs. 70% of land shall be reserved for Micro and Small enterprises and 30% of the Land shall be open for medium and large investors.

The land shall be allotted on lease to investors initially for a period of 40 years, which may be extendable to 99 years. There will be three committees for the allotment of land on the basis of investment in plant and machinery --- District Level Single Window Clearance Committee, Department Level Single Window Clearance Committee and State Level Single Window Clearance Committee.

LAB executive member Chering Dorje said that there is nothing good in the industrial policy. "No local stakeholders were taken into confidence before framing the policy. The public representatives have no say in framing this police, which is aimed to grab the land of people of Ladakh."

Social-political activist and KDA member Sajjad Kargili said that the policy poses a 'significant risk' to the delicate environment of the region and threatens the indigenous cultural identity of the region.

Israel faces mounting pressure from allies over Gaza humanitarian crisis

G7 countries call for pauses in fighting to deliver food, water, meds and fuel to Palestinians

KHAN YOUNIS

ISRAEL faced mounting pressure from some of its closest allies Wednesday over the plight of civilians in Gaza, where thousands streamed on foot out of the enclave's north because of dwindling food and water and fear of approaching Israeli forces.

Over 70% of Gaza's population of 2.3 million have already left their homes, but the number making their way south has quickened recently as Israeli troops battle Hamas militants inside Gaza City and the humanitarian situation grows increasingly dire.

The Group of Seven wealthy nations called Wednesday for the "unimpeded" delivery of food, water, medicine and fuel, and for 'humanitarian pauses' in the fighting. Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has left open the possibility of small pauses to deliver humanitarian aid, but has ruled out a broader cease-fire unless all hostages are freed.

There is no end in sight to the war triggered by Hamas' deadly October 7 assault inside Israel. Israel has said the battle to end Hamas' rule and crush its military capabilities will be long and difficult, and that it will maintain some form of control over the coastal enclave indefinitely ' though how it will achieve that remains unclear. Support for the war remains strong inside Israel, where the focus has been on the fate of the more than 240 hostages taken by Hamas and other militant groups.

"There is an ocean of needs in Gaza right now, and what's been getting in is a drop in the ocean. We need fuel, we need water, we need food, and we need medical supplies," Dominic Allen of the United Nations Population Fund said, speaking from the West Bank.

Meanwhile, a source close to Hamas said that negotiations are underway for the release of a dozen hostages held by Hamas, including six Americans, in return for a three-day ceasefire in the Gaza Strip.

"Talks revolve around the release of 12 hostages, half of them Americans, in exchange for a three-day humanitarian pause, to enable Hamas to release the hostages and to enable Egypt an extended (period of time) to deliver humanitarian aid," the source said. "Qatar is awaiting an Israeli response," they added. AFP

Thousands head south amid heavy ground fighting in Gaza City

Palestinians leaving Gaza City for southern areas on Wednesday | AFP

KHAN YOUNIS

Palestinians are fleeing south on foot with only what they can carry after running out of food and water in the north, a UN agency said Wednesday, as Israel said its troops were battling Hamas militants deep inside Gaza City.

Over 70% of Gaza's population of 2.3 million have already fled their homes, but the growing numbers making their way south point to an increasingly desperate situation in and around Gaza's largest city, which has come under heavy Israeli bombardment.

Israel has said its war to end Hamas' rule and crush its military capabilities will be long and difficult, and that it will maintain some form of control over the coastal enclave indefinitely. About 15,000 people fled northern Gaza on Tuesday, triple the number that left Monday, according to the UN Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs. They are using Gaza's main north-south highway during a daily four-hour window announced.

Those fleeing include children, the elderly and people with disabilities, and most walked with minimal belongings, the UN agency said. Some say they had to cross Israeli checkpoints, where they saw people being arrested, while others held their hands in the air and raised white flags while passing Israeli tanks.

Residents reported loud explosions overnight into Wednesday across Gaza City and in its Shati refugee camp, which houses Palestinian families who fled or were driven out of what is now Israel during the 1948 war surrounding its establishment.

Tens of thousands of Palestinians remain in the north, many sheltering at hospitals or UN schools. The north has been without running water for weeks, and the UN agency said the last functioning bakeries shut down on Tuesday for lack of fuel, water and flour. Hospitals running low on supplies are performing surgeries without anesthesia, it said. AP

Putin meets senior Chinese general, hails growing military relationship

MOSCOW

RUSSIA'S Vladimir Putin hailed strengthening military ties with Beijing on Wednesday as he hosted a senior Chinese general in Moscow.

Russia has bolstered ties with its Chinese neighbour in the last year, as it seeks allies against the backdrop of its dragging offensive on Ukraine.

"Our contacts in the military and military-technology spheres are becoming increasingly important," the Russian president told Zhang Youxia, a high-ranking general and vice chairman of Beijing's Central Military Commission.

In televised remarks, Russian president Putin said Moscow and Beijing were not building a Cold War-style "military alliance", but said cooperation between the two countries is "a serious factor stabilising the global situation."

He said the United States was boosting its military presence in the Asia-Pacific region, and that Russia and China would react "calmy, carefully and by strengthening our defence capabilities."

Russian Defence Minister Sergei Shoigu had earlier welcomed Zhang and a Chinese military delegation in a red carpet ceremony held in the Russian capital.

Zhang told Putin he had come to Russia "to further strengthen military-technical cooperation," according to a translation of broadcast on Russian state TV.

His visit came three weeks after Putin went to Beijing in a rare trip abroad.

Beijing has become Russia's key political and economic ally amid Moscow's isolation on the world stage, and Putin and Chinese leader Xi Jinping have presented a united front against the West. AFP

Switzerland rolls back tax exemption for e-vehicles

GENEVA; Switzerland on Wednesday scrapped a tax exemption for imports of electric cars, whose growing presence on Swiss roads has cut into tax revenues.The federal government said in a statement that electric cars would from January 1 be subject to the same four-percent import duty imposed on traditional fuel vehicles. Electric vehicles had been exempt from the taxation since its introduction in 1997. The government had then wanted to create incentives for the use of electric cars. But it said "the situation has now changed significantly". "The Federal Council takes the view that the exemption from duty as an incentive is no longer necessary, given the sharp rise in the share of e-vehicles in total car imports and the convergence of prices," it said. Between the years 2018 and 2022, annual imports of e-vehicles jumped nearly sixfold, from around 8,000 to more than 45,000 vehicles. In the first half of 2023, around 30,400 e-vehicles were imported into the country, marking a 66% hike from the same period a year earlier, it said.

Suicide bombings rise 500% since Af fell to Taliban, says Pak caretaker PM

ISLAMABAD

CARETAKER Prime Minister Anwaarul Haq Kakar said on Wednesday that terror attacks in Pakistan rose 60% and suicide bombings by 500% after the Taliban came to power in Afghanistan, lamenting at Kabul's failure to stop the use of its soil for terrorism.

The hardline Taliban seized power in Afghanistan in August 2021 bringing to an end the government in Kabul when the army, trained and equipped by the US and allies, melted away with a speed that surprised even the rebels.

"After the establishment of the interim Afghan government in August 2021, we had a strong hope that there would be long-term peace in Afghanistan. Strict action would be taken against Pakistan-opposing groups, especially the Tehreek-e-Taliban Pakistan (TTP), and they would absolutely not be allowed to use Afghan soil against Pakistan," Kakar said at a press conference in Islamabad.

"But unfortunately, after the establishment of the interim Afghan govt, there has been a 60% increase in terror incidents and a 500% rise in suicide attacks in Pakistan," he said.

He said that 2,267 Pakistani citizens were killed in the past two years due to the attacks by the TTP using Afghan soil.

"During this time, 15 Afghan citizens were also among the people involved in suicide attacks. Other than this, till now, 64 Afghan citizens were killed while fighting Pakistan's law enforcement agencies during the counterterrorism campaign," he said.

Kakar asserted that the details of the attacks were in the knowledge of the Afghan interim authorities, but no action was taken against the TTP despite assurance by the Taliban. His remarks come after a spate of attacks, including on Mianwali Training Air Base in the Punjab province, which was claimed by the Tehreek-e-Jihad Pakistan and the killing of soldiers in an ambush in Gwadar, claimed by the Balochistan Liberation Front. PTI

Two policemen killed in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa

Heavily armed militants attacked an oil and gas company in Pakistan's restive Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province, killing two policemen and injuring three others, police said. The attack occurred late on Tuesday night at the Alhaj Oil and Gas Company in the Dera Ismail Khan district bordering the South Waziristan tribal district. Following the shootout, two policemen were killed and three injured.

Man killed by malfunctioning factory robot

SEOUL

A man was crushed to death by a robot in South Korea after the machine apparently failed to differentiate him from the boxes of produce it was handling, the Yonhap news agency reported Wednesday.

The man, a robotics company worker in his 40s, was inspecting the robot's sensor operations at a distribution centre for agricultural produce in South Gyeongsang province.

The industrial robot, which was lifting boxes filled with bell peppers and placing them on a pallet, appears to have malfunctioned and identified the man as a box, Yonhap reported citing the police. The robotic arm pushed the man's upper body down against the conveyor belt, crushing his face and chest, according to Yonhap. He was transferred to the hospital but died later. AFP

Pakistan seeks $600 million in fresh loans from Chinese banks

Cash-strapped Pakistan has sought $600 million in fresh loans from two Chinese banks to bridge a big financing gap as it negotiates with the IMF for the release of the second tranche of a USD 3 billion bailout package, a media report said

HIGH COST OF BORROWING

Pakistan has budgeted USD 4.5 billion in foreign commercial loans but it has so far not received any financing due to poor credit ratings, high risks to debt sustainability and a weak macroeconomic situation

Three international credit rating agencies have downgraded Pakistan, which has increased its cost of borrowing and created obstacles in the way of arranging new foreign commercial loans

TALKS AT ADVANCED STAGE

The Express Tribune newspaper reported that the federal government was in negotiations with the Industrial and Commercial Bank of China (ICBC) and the Bank of China for a total loan of USD 600 million. Each bank has been approached for USD 300 million in financing.

Since 2017, larger proportions of Chinese development finance have been rescue loans, rather than for developmental projects, which were the hallmark of CPEC in its heyday from 2014 to 2017 when fresh commitments were forthcoming in large amounts, wrote AidData, a Western research lab, in its latest report.

Negotiations are at an advanced stage and loans are expected to be received by next month, according to officials

ALL-WEATHER ALLY

In recent years, China, Pakistan's all-weather ally, has become Islamabad's last hope for meeting emergency financing needs. Every government, including the caretakers, has reached out to China for rescue funds

The Chinese have been extending loans from SAFE deposits, concessionary loans and commercial loans to Pakistan. In June, China helped Pakistan avoid a fall in its foreign reserves by prematurely adjusting the repayment of USD 1.3 billion

E.U. COMMISSION NOD FOR TALKS ON KYIV'S MEMBERSHIP

BRUSSELS

The European Union's executive arm on Wednesday recommended opening formal membership talks with Ukraine and Moldova, in a major show of support for Kyiv as it battles Russia.

Ukraine launched its bid to become part of the European Union right after Moscow's all-out invasion in February 2022, and was officially named a candidate to join in June of the same year.

"Today is a historic day," European Commission president Ursula von der Leyen said. "Ukraine continues to face tremendous hardship and tragedy provoked by Russia's war of aggression and yet the Ukrainians are deeply reforming their country."

Ukraine's President Volodymyr Zelensky hailed the move as the "right step" for Europe. "Our country must be in the European Union. Ukrainians deserve it both for their defence of European values and for the fact that even in times of full-scale war, we keep our word," he posted online.

Moldovan President Maia Sandu thanked Brussels and said her country was "firmly on the path for EU membership and we will continue working relentlessly towards this goal".

The EU's 27 leaders still have to sign off on the recommendations at a summit in December.

Von der Leyen said Ukraine and Moldova should be required to complete further reforms before a formal start date could be set.

She said her executive would issue an update on the progress in March 2024.

Even if Ukraine starts talks, it will still only be at the beginning of a painstaking process of reforms that could last for years — if not decades — before it joins the European Union.

Alongside urging progress for Ukraine and Moldova, Brussels also suggested member states grant Georgia candidate status.

President of the European Commission Ursula von der Leyen

"I rejoice with the people of Georgia," Georgian President Salome Zurabishvili wrote online.

Balkan country Bosnia did not get the unalloyed seal of approval, failing to win clear backing for talks after becoming an EU candidate in December.

The commission recommended opening negotiations "once the necessary degree of compliance with the membership criteria is achieved". AFP

US to fund Adani port project in SL

Seen as India and the US strategic move to curtail growing influence of China in Sri Lanka

ARSHAD KHAN @New Delhi

A United States government agency, US International Development Finance Corporation (DFC), is funding $553 million to a consortium led by Adani Port & SEZ for the development of a port terminal in Sri Lanka capital Colombo.

The funding is seen as India's and the United State's strategic move to curtail the growing influence of China in Sri Lanka. China, through its port entities, has a sizeable presence in Sri Lanka as the maritime nation in the Indian Ocean is expected to become a crucial part of its ambitious Belt and Road Initiative (BRI)

China Merchant Ports (CM Ports) has been operating the Colombo International Container Terminal (CICT) for over a decade and in 2017 it took over the Hambantota Port on the southern coast of the island under a 99-year lease. From the funding of Hambantota Port to getting its lease, the project has been so controversial that many term it a 'debt-trap' for Sri Lanka and a major reason for its recent economic and political downturn.

The investment by Development Finance Corporation in Sri Lanka is itself significant as this institution was established just five years ago to counter China's growing presence in underdeveloped and developed nations through the BRI.

Experts believe that DFC's funding and Adani's commitment to Sri Lanka can give a big boost to India's diplomatic power in the Southeast Asian region.

Development Finance Corporation Chief Executive Officer Scott Nathan said that the terminal project will add greater prosperity for Sri Lanka – without adding to sovereign debt – while at the same time strengthening the position of their allies across the region.

As for billionaire Gautam Adani, this is the first time that the US government, through one of its agencies, is funding an Adani project, which is a ringing endorsement of the Adani Group.

Karan Adani, whole-time director and CEO, Adani Ports and Special Economic Zone, said "When completed, Colombo West International Terminal project will transform the socio-economic landscape, not just in Colombo but across the island, through thousands of direct and indirect new employment opportunities and by massively boosting Sri Lanka's trade and commerce ecosystem."

Karan also informed that Adani group has proposed to the Sri Lankan government to set up the wind project in the northwestern region at an initial investment of $750 million. The Development Finance Corporation will be lending $553 million to the consortium developing the terminal. Adani Ports, with 51% stake is the largest stakeholder in the consortium while Sri Lanka's John Keells Holdings has a 34% share and the Sri Lanka Ports Authority has the remaining 15%.

Govt says no favouritism in coal mines allocation

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

AFTER facing criticism over allocation of coal mines to Adani Group, coal ministry on Wednesday refuted such insinuations and clarified that mines are being auctioned through a transparent mechanism.

The government rejected claims that Cavill Mining, which was the only other bidder for a mine that Adani Group won in March 2023, is related to Adani Group. "No correlation has been established between Cavill Mining and Adani Group… In this case, it can't be established that Cavill is an affiliate of Adani Group. Furthermore, in case a misrepresentation has been found at any stage of the auction process, the Ministry of Coal has a right to take appropriate actions," said the ministry in a statement.

As per a media report, Adani Group emerged as one of the biggest winners in the commercial coal auctions held in March 2023. The company picked up four coal blocks at among the lowest prices in auction. The report said North West of Madheri coal block won by Adani Group had only one other bidder, Cavill Mining Private Limited. The report alleged there is some correlation between Cavill Mining and Adani Group.

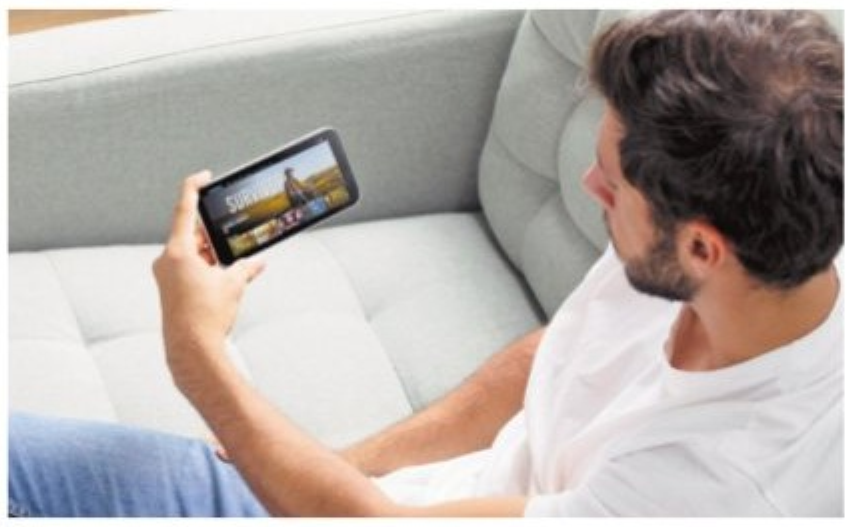
'Adanis picked up 4 blocks at among lowest prices'

According to a report, Adani Group picked up four coal blocks at among the lowest prices in auction. The report said North West of Madheri coal block won by Adani Group had only one other bidder, Cavill Mining Private Limited. The report alleged there is some correlation between Cavill Mining and Adani Group

As per the rules, in case of less than two technically qualified bidders, the first attempt of auction for that mine will be annulled and the second attempt of auction may be initiated with the approval of competent authority. However, in case of only one bidder again in the second attempt, the matter will be referred to the Empowered Committee of Secretaries (ECoS) comprising Secretary (Department of External Affairs), Secretary (Department of Legal Affairs), Secretary (Ministry of Petroleum and Natural gas) and Secretary (Coal) for appropriate decision with respect to allocation of mine.

The government started auctioning commercial mining in 2020. A total of 91 coal mines have been auctioned so far. The mines have been allocated to Vedanta Limited, Birla Corporation Limited, JSW Steel limited among others.

Tech companies oppose govt bid to bring live TV broadcasts on smartphone



ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Chennai

TECH giants Samsung, Qualcomm, Nokia and others are opposing India's proposed technology to bring live TV broadcasts on smartphones.

According to a report, the companies in a letter to the Ministry of Electronic and Information Technology said the move will increase the expenditure on devices by $30. "We do not find any merit in progressing discussion on the adoption of this," said the letter dated October 17.

The government is planning to mandate equipping smartphones with hardware to receive live television signals without the requirement for cellular networks, the technology is prevalent in North America.

Called ATSC 3.0 technology, it allows precise geo-locating of TV signals and provides high picture quality. The companies are of view that their devices are not equipped to work with ATSC 3.0, and any efforts to add that compatibility will raise the cost of each device by $30 as more components need to be added.

According to the letter, jointly sent by Samsung, Qualcomm, Ericsson and Nokia to the ministry also mentioned that direct-to-mobile broadcasting can also degrade battery performance of devices and cellular reception.

Meanwhile, the proposal is still under deliberation and could be changed, and there is no fixed timeline for implementation, according to a source with direct knowledge. For India's government, the live TV broadcast features are a way to offload the congestion on telecom networks due to higher video consumption.

Recently, the government asked the mobile makers to make phones compatible with a home-grown navigation system and another proposal to mandate security testing for handsets.

STAKE SALE

Lingotto buys 16.5% stake in TVS ILP

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Chennai

LINGOTTO, UK-based asset management company, buys 16.5% stake in TVS Industrial and Logistics Park (ILP), part of TVS Mobility Group, at an enterprise value of ₹2,800 crore.

The transaction from existing investor British International Investment (BII) took place through secondary stake sale, the company announced on Wednesday. Lingotto already has bought a 4.5% stake in ILP from TVS SCS, another company of the TVS Mobility group, in September. It was valued at ₹51 crore.

The deal indicates the potential value of the privately held company of the TVS Mobility group. In the annual returns of 2021-22 financial year, TVS ILP reported its net worth at ₹569.3 crore and a turnover of ₹187 crore. The company expects the value of the company to rise further as the Indian warehousing and logistics sector is poised to grow. TVS ILP provides plug and play manufacturing facility, warehouse and distribution network focusing on e-commerce, FMCG and consumer durables companies and third-party logistics. Started in 2005, it has a presence in 19 countries and is one of the largest warehouse players in the country. It plans to expand integrated logistics parks across the country and increase its warehousing capacity.

Currently its presence is concentrated in the southern region, though it is present in some major hubs in the northern and western regions.

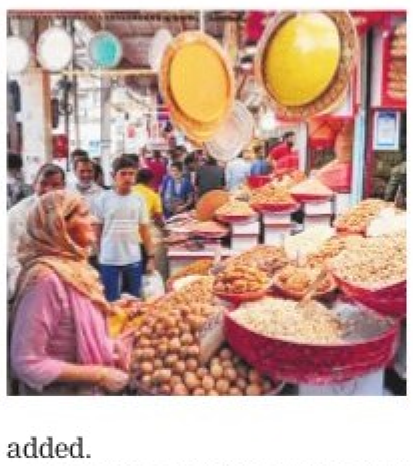
Festive season to create 2.5 mn frontline jobs

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Bengaluru

THE ongoing festive season will create over 2.5 million frontline jobs, and the demand for frontline workers will increase by 72% this festive season compared to last year, according to a report.

BetterPlace's Festive Season Insight, released on Wednesday, said over 1.95 million job vacancies were created during FY22 festive season due to the post-pandemic boom, but in FY23, as spending decreased, the job vacancies dropped to 1.45 million.

However, the increase in demand for frontline workers in the festive season of this financial year seems to hint to a normalisation of spending among consumers, the report added.



More than 1.95 million job vacancies were created during FY22 festive season and again next year it declined to 1.45 million.

In FY23, industry average salaries have increased marginally by 3.25% when compared to FY22 festive season. While Infrastructure and facility management & information technology (IFM&IT) witnessed a 30% increase in salary during the festive season of FY23, retail & QSR saw a salary increase of 7%.

"This can be attributed to the increase in demand for customer care services among enterprises and the consumer shift in shopping offline. However, salaries in e-commerce and logistics & mobility fell 8% and 16.7%, respectively. This can be attributed to the large supply of workers in this sector during the festive season," the report added.

Pravin Agarwala, co-founder and Group chief executive officer at BetterPlace, said, "In the last few months we are seeing a significant shift in nature of work and workforce in the country. While the demand for frontline workers continues to rise, it is largely driven by demand for semi-skilled workers. The supply of workers currently is not able to keep up with this demand."

Festive season provides massive opportunity for frontline workers to increase their earning potential. Also, low salaries during the festive season in the logistics & mobility and manufacturing sector resulted in an increase in attrition, growing at 107% and 100%, respectively.

However, high salaries by sectors such as BFSI and IFM&IT resulted in a decline in attrition in these sectors, decreasing by 23% and 58%, respectively.

Gaming cos may seek time for GST replies

MONIKA YADAV @New Delhi

THE online gaming companies, which have been served notices worth ₹1 lakh crore may seek extension from the tax department to file their replies, Sanjay Kumar Agarwal, Chairman, Central Board of Indirect Taxes & Customs(CBIC) said on Wednesday on the sidelines of an event organised by the confederation of Indian industries (CII).

"The amounts mentioned in the show cause notices, the replies can be filed by the companies putting forth their point of view. As per the understanding of the tax department, the notices have been issued. But they have the right to put up their point of view and then these notices will be adjudicated. In notices the time has been mentioned to file their replies. They may seek extension also to file their replies," Agarwal stated.

Meanwhile, he also refuted the claims that the buoyancy in GST revenue was due to taxes levied on online gaming companies. "The growth in GST collection has come purely on economic activity. Last month, growth was not only from domestic GST supplies but it was from IGST supplies also. The imports were healthier as the companies may be replenishing their stock ahead of Diwali festival," Agarwal added.

On speculation that the Centre may cut excise duties ahead of general election, the CBIC Chairman said, "Excise duties are levied on a very few products, which are mainly petroleum products. So, depending upon the prices prevailing in the international market, the excise duty rates are calibrated accordingly and are not dependent upon GST collection."

Furthermore, he stressed that the taxpayers should do some introspection while seeking exemption or lower tax rates from the Centre as it disrupts the input tax credit mechanism.

OZ: THE WORLD CUP'S BIG DADDIES ARE BACK WHERE THEY BELONG

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

YOU are 11. The cricket World Cup is on TV and you are watching it with interest. The last time it was on, Ajay Jadeja treated Waqar Younis like a club bowler. This time, you vow to watch all the matches. Sachin Tendulkar, your parents tell you, stands between an Indian win and defeat. So, when he is dismissed cheaply against Australia while chasing a big score in the 1999 edition, you go out and play hide and seek. A few weeks later, Australia win the World Cup. But it's okay. You are just a kid and you won't even remember it when school reopens in a few weeks.

You are 15. Time for 10th standard board exams. You struggle with Mathematics. More obtuse the angles in your geometry textbook, the more acute your problems. Another World Cup rolls around. India are looking okay. Australia are loaded with match-winners. Tendulkar, you know by now, is a totemic presence. Chasing 360, though, isn't going to happen. Australia win another World Cup. You are a teen who's obsessed with the game. So the final is a heartbreak.

You are 19 and in college. After picking commerce in school, you pick business administration in college. You are in a steady relationship. Both of you are into cricket and make elaborate plans to watch a World Cup in the West Indies. Games begin at 7.30 PM. SMS charges will cost a bomb so you decide to come up with a new system. India stink the place out. Australia win another World Cup. Plus ca change and all that (the more things change, more they remain the same). So predictable.

Australia players celebrate their win over defending champs England | AFP

You are 23. You have a nephew. You are a working professional. The last time you saw Australia lose in a World Cup, you were a child. Lol. Is there even any point in watching this World Cup in India? But, hang on. They lose to India in a World Cup. Is that even allowed? India go on to win the World Cup. So this is what it feels like, eh? Bottle this feeling and sell it in the supermarkets.

You are 27. You have a niece. You are in another relationship. A few strands of white hair remind you about the unrelenting, unforgiving passage of time. The office you are working for wants you to do something for the World Cup. It is in Australia-New Zealand. India look good. Australia look better. In the semifinals, both face each other. You tell yourself it will be a close game. It's over as a contest long before the final ball is bowled. Australia win another World Cup. They have lost three matches between 2003 and 2015. Four World Cups. Three titles. The definition of domination.

You are 35. People are laughing at Australia because they haven't begun the World Cup well. They will never learn. If it's the World Cup, they will find a way. They always find a way. In your lifetime alone, you have seen Shane Warne, Ricky Ponting, Adam Gilchrist and Steve Smith come up with generational performances. You have also seen Brett Lee and Andrew Symonds perform escape acts that belonged in an otherworldly realm.

You also saw Glenn Maxwell.

The big daddies of this event just know how to get it done.

Mentality monsters.

Double threat for Kiwis

Williamson & Co will be hopeful that rain will stay away when they face Sri Lanka in a crucial World Cup encounter in Bengaluru

VISHNU PRASAD @Bengaluru

New Zealand players train at the M Chinnaswamy Stadium, Bengaluru on Wednesday ahead of their must-win game against Sri Lanka | VINOD KUMAR T

AS they took to the Chinnaswamy Stadium turf on Wednesday, for one final practice session before their all-important World Cup game against Sri Lanka, at least some of New Zealand's players must have been wondering how it all boiled down to this. After starting with four wins from four games, the Kiwis would no doubt have expected to be much more certain of their future in the tournament at this stage. Yet here they are, needing a win by as much as they can, at the mercy of a number of factors, the most important of which is Bengaluru's weather.

The weather is often the last thing visitors to the Garden City complain about, yet that would have been the biggest gripe of the Kiwis' week here. Against Pakistan, they were sitting pretty after putting in excess of four hundred on the board in the first innings. Then the rain came and Pakistan only had to play an average T20 innings to take home the points — 140-odd from 20 overs (the par DLS score at that point) would have been nothing special in an IPL game at this ground.

On Thursday, rain once again stands in their way, arguably posing more of a challenge than the Lankans who have looked worse and worse as the tournament has progressed. There has not been a day in the past week where Bengaluru has not seen rain. The last two days have witnessed sustained spells. The forecasters believe there is more than a 70 per cent chance of rain on Thursday. A washout here will mean that a win for Pakistan against England will take them to the semifinals. As inadequate as New Zealand's recent bowling performances have been, no team deserves to go out of the World Cup after having two games affected by rain.

"We did start off well in terms of those results, but there were also some really close games and ones that we lost," captain Kane Williamson said on the eve of the match. "I think if we look at the cricket as a whole, there has been a lot of good cricket. We've seen a lot of teams here playing really good cricket and coming into it, we knew that anybody can beat anybody and we've certainly seen that. There's been so many, every team's won a few. And so, yeah, I mean, it's just trying to focus on our cricket and try to put out better performances."

"There's lots of things that we can't control and the weather is one of those," he added. "There may be a thought in the back of your mind, but at the end of the day, our focus will be on the cricket that we want to play and trying to put all our focus and energy into that."

The one thing that will work in New Zealand's favour is that they finally have a full-strength squad to choose from, after spending half the tournament with key players injured. 'Fittish' was how Williamson described his players on Wednesday. Given that the man himself was 'fittish' before his brilliant knock of 95 against Pakistan, the Kiwis will take that.

Sri Lanka will not be completely devoid of motivation. Englands' win over the Netherlands on Wednesday means that they will need a win to secure their spot in the 2025 ICC Champions Trophy. However, there has been little in their last couple of games to suggest that they are capable of one.

In a perfect world, the Kiwis would have been overwhelming favourites to get a huge win and qualify for the semifinal. But then, this has not been that kind of a tournament for New Zealand.

DO-OR-DIE FOR THE KIWIS

Four wins followed by four losses is how NZ's WC campaign has gone. A win against SL could give them a chance at a top-four finish, but a loss could end it all. A look...

DISAPPOINTING BOWLING SHOW

Despite scoring 401 against Pakistan in Bengaluru, New Zealand bowling fell apart against Fakhar Zaman, who smashed 11 sixes against them. With injuries to Matt Henry, Lockie Ferguson and others, fielding a fit playing XI is a great challenge for them.

CHAMPIONS TROPHY IN MIND

With four points from eight matches, Sri Lanka are currently seated eighth on the points table. A win against NZ here could strengthen their chances to participate in the 2025 edition of the Champions Trophy. After an emotionally charged encounter with Bangladesh, they would be desperate to put a show against the Kiwis.

POTENTIAL RAIN FIASCO?

Weather services have predicted a high chance of rain throughout the day, and it could potentially derail the plans of both teams to make the most of the situation.

Stokes keeps England in reckoning for CT

AGENCIES @Pune

BEN Stokes' attacking century was well complemented by the bowlers as England cantered to a 160-run win over the Netherlands on Wednesday to stay in the hunt for a place in the 2025 Champions Trophy in Pakistan. Though England and Netherlands are out of reckoning for the semifinals, the contest between the two lowest-placed sides gain significance when it comes to qualifying for the Champions Trophy as only the top seven teams from the ongoing showpiece will qualify for the event.

England's batting finally clicked as they posted 339 for 9 and then the bowlers did the rest, dismissing Netherlands for 179 in 37.2 overs. The win took England to the seventh spot in the points table on account of better run rate. They will take on Pakistan in their last match in Kolkata on Saturday. Brief scores: Eng 339/9 in 50 ovs (Stokes 108, Malan 87) bt Netherlands 179 in 37.2 ovs (Moeen 3/42, Rashid 3/54).

WC with 14 teams, a welcome move

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

THE previous edition of the ODI World Cup, hosted by England four years ago, was the only showpiece event in its 45-year-old long history that did not feature a team from an associate nation. The tournament, which started with eight teams in 1975, saw the participating nations rise to 16 in 2007. Since then, it has only decreased with the next two editions (2011 and 2014) witnessing 14 teams and 10 in the next two in 2019 and 2023.

The board of the International Cricket Council, however, decided to make it a 14-team affair for 2027 and 2031. The expansion means unlike the 2019 World Cup, the next two editions can have a maximum of two teams from the associate nations if the number of full members remains at 12 till then. "It (World Cup participation) motivates the associate nations to do better. This motivation is a prerequisite to ensure their overall performance keeps improving," Lalchand Rajput, technical director of Zimbabwe, who missed out on a spot for the 2023 edition, told this daily from Harare.

In fact, it was two years ago that the International Cricket Council (ICC) decided to expand the tournament. It was made possible only after a few members like Cricket Ireland made a submission to the world governing body to restore the 14-team format in the event. "The first thing to say is that ICC and the members responded strongly to the need to restore the 14-team CWC – in particular, BCCI's secretary Jay Shah's personal support was critical and extremely welcome," Warren Deutrom, Cricket Ireland's Chief Executive Officer, informed this daily through an e-mail. The submission was not discussed but also appended to the paper the ICC circulated at the chief executives' committee meeting in early 2021." ICC had done an excellent job in consulting with members on the issue, and I think it achieved an outcome which will ultimately be in the best interest of the game," Deutrom added.

Netherlands are the only team from an associate nation competing at the ongoing 2023 edition in India | AFP

The expansion is something for which the associate nations have been fighting at least since 2012. Their persistent demands were the reason the ICC reached a compromise formula by increasing the number of teams in the T20 WC to 16 and reducing the teams in the ODI mega event to 10, which was implemented in the last eight-year cycle. Sumod Damodar, one of the elected associate member representatives (Botswana) and a part of the 20-strong ICC Chief Executives Committee, is one of them and he feels more nations are ready to take the plunge as far as the ODI World Cup is concerned. "... when you ask me, what is my opinion on the 10-team format and the 14-team format, the 10 teams at the time when it was introduced seemed right because, at that time, there were only eight or nine full members and the number of full members increased to 10 first and then to 12. So at that time, it seemed okay. Today, the associate members, whether it be an ODI or T20, men or women, there are upsets being caused with four members and increasingly so, which means the associate members are ready. I think the likes of Scotland, Netherlands and Namibia in the men, Thailand and so on. And the women are ready. I think they're absolutely ready to go for the big game," Damodar told this daily.

Rajput feels going back to the 14-team format will have long-term positive impacts on the associate nations making the sport global. "Participation fees these nations get from the ICC help them in developing cricketing infrastructure in their respective countries. It happened in the case of Afghanistan. I have seen those developments from close quarters. They have come a long way since they first featured in the 2015 ODI and 2016 T20 World Cups. They don't train or play on their home grounds but I have been told they have built two or three stadiums in Kabul, which in turn is attracting a lot of young talents," said Rajput.

While the number of teams have gone up to 14 for the 2027 and 2031 edition, the conversation doesn't end there. With the inclusion of cricket in the 2028 LA Olympics, the need for the conversation around the consistent expansion is relevant now more than ever. Damodar believes openness of mind is key to take the sport forward. "One has to be prepared to say, 'right? You know what? Yeah, some of us, we will lose our comfort base, but it is not going to take anything away from the game.' It is actually only going to help the game. We always said that no individual, no team, no administrator, no player, nobody is bigger than the game. But for that, we have to respect the game also to understand that we have to allow the game, the room and the capacity to actually show what it's all about. We have to allow the global spectators and the fans to be able to, at one point in time, support their respective country. We also need to be logical about how we express our views," says Damodar.

SMAT: Batters take centre stage as pool grows

KALYANI MANGALE @Chennai

IT was in the previous season of the Syed Mushtaq Ali (SMA) Trophy where the likes of Shubman Gill and Ishan Kishan were honing their skills for their respective sides. Now, Gill is the No. 1 ranked ODI batter after stellar performances, and Kishan has proved his maturity with his knocks in the Asia Cup. It goes on to show the important role domestic competitions like the SMA Trophy, play alongside Indian Premier League in preparing players for the bigger stage. The recently concluded 2023-24 season, where Punjab won their maiden title after four attempts, was no exception.

One of the performers of the tournament was Punjab's Abhishek Sharma, who won the Player of the Tournament award after his 485 runs across ten innings, including two centuries and three half-tons. After a lean patch for Sunrisers Hyderabad, where his team finished last and he couldn't perform to the best of his abilities, Sharma came back for his state side and batted with a strike rate of 192.46. He was amongst the runs for India A in the Emerging Asia Cup in July, but with consistency in the domestic scheme, one could make his case for the senior team.

Punjab lift their maiden SMAT title defeating Baroda in the final at Mohali | TWITTER

Assam's Riyan Parag also dazzled in the tournament with his batting performance as he became the only player to go past 500 runs in this edition. His strike rate of 182.79 at an average of 85 did the heavy lifting to extend Assam's dream run to the semifinal for the first time. Punjab's Anmolpreet Singh took the final by storm with a century and a crucial 43 in the quarterfinal against UP.

Hyderabad pacer T Ravi Teja topped the wickets chart while also taking the best bowling figures (6/13) against Chhattisgarh in Jaipur. Kolkata Knight Riders' debutant from earlier this year, Suyash Sharma, took 18 wickets with an economy of 4.64 for Delhi. With his 10 wickets from 11 matches in the IPL to go with this performance in the SMAT, KKR is likely to retain the spinner, with the retention deadline coming soon.

Bhuvneshwar Kumar, who found himself out of India's WC squad, after appearing in the 2015 and 2019 editions, also impressed with his 16 wickets across seven innings. With the IPL retention date and auction coming soon, the players have had their say with the performance in the SMAT. Looking at the bigger picture, this could well create the base for future Team India slots, post-WC.

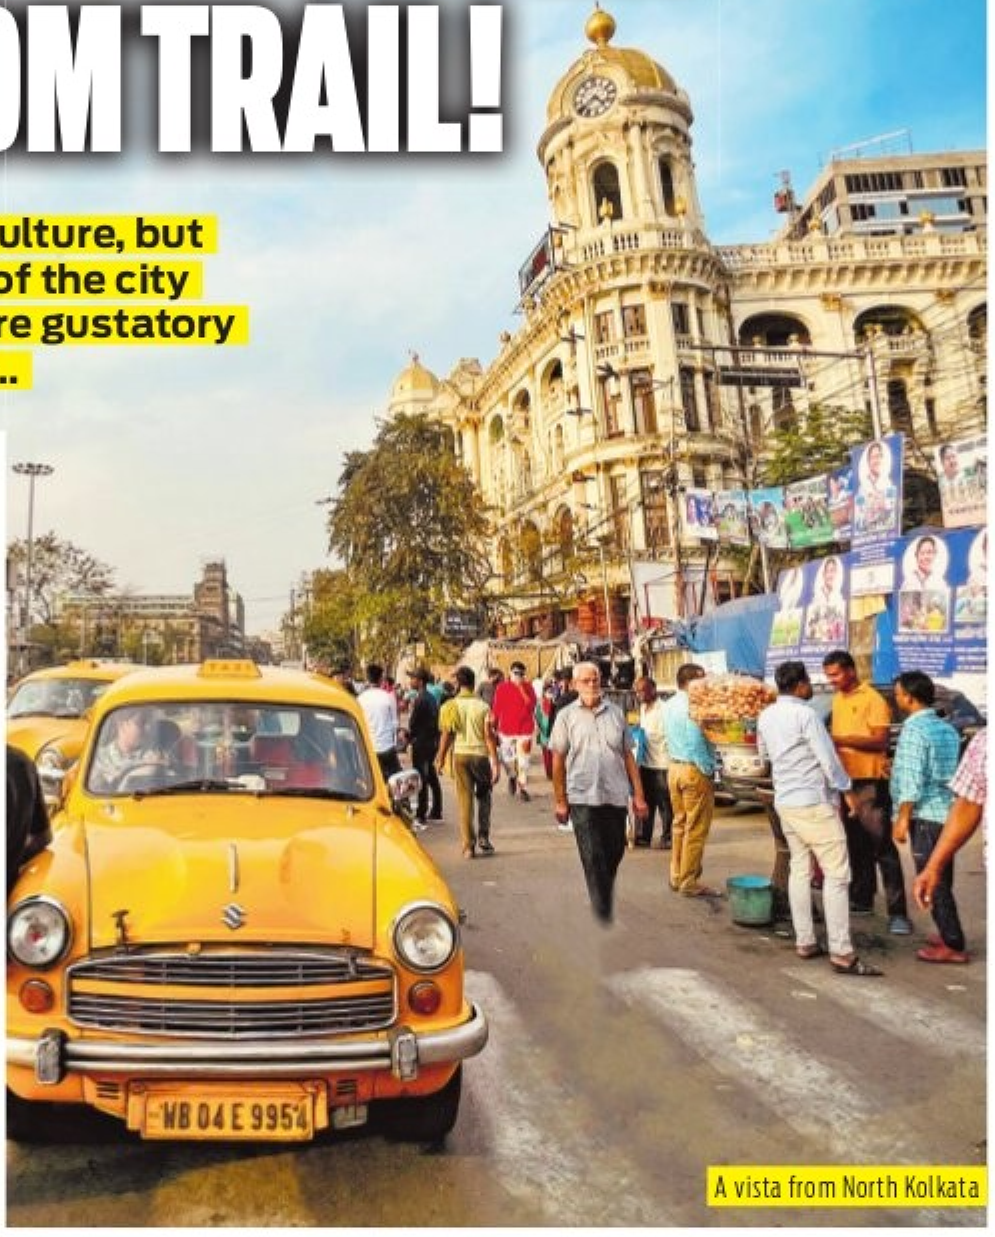
PRATTUSA MALLIK

THE NORTH KOLKATA NOM-NOM TRAIL!

Kolkata is known for culture, but the northern suburbs of the city welcome you with more gustatory treats, as we discover...



A vista from North Kolkata

Food. Conversations. Art. They say the sign of a true-blue Kolkatan is the love for these three. And an impromptu stroll on the streets of North Kolkata would be enough to convince you that it is true. The northern part of the city houses its oldest neighbourhoods — from the coveted College Street to the stunning Shobhabazar. Its charming old-world aesthetics has mesmerised and inspired artists across generations.

Lined up across its streets are old houses, carrying remnants of the glorious colonial architecture while the pavements bustle with shops of all kinds — especially eateries. Once a melting pot of cultures from across the globe, Kolkata's culinary landscape is a curious blend of very distinct cuisines like Mughlai, Chinese and British, apart from the traditional Bengali cuisine. These diverse street-side eateries in the city, mostly located in the northern parts, are a gourmand's haven. If you are visiting the city anytime soon, you are sure to have your must-visit eatery list overflowing with suggestions from friends and research from the internet. Saving you from the trouble of choosing which ones to try out, we bring you a day-long curated food walk in North Kolkata.

Breakfast at Tiretti Bazaar

While most of us associate having Chinese food with dinner, here's a place – which is popular for offering Chinese delicacies only for breakfast. Located at Sun Yat Sen Street behind Lalbazar Police Headquarters near Central Metro Station, Tiretti Bazar is a market that has home-chefs whipping up delectable fare from fish-ball soups and fish siu mai to chicken pies and sticky rice. If you're someone who wants to have a healthy-yet-filling breakfast, this should be your option. Do not forget to try out the coconut balls, which will satiate those who like desserts that are not too sweet. A meal for one would cost somewhere between ₹50-100. The market operates between 5-9 am and closes a little later on Sundays.

Chicken Pie at Tiretti Bazaar

Sharbat at Paramount

After such a blissful breakfast, you can't miss out on walking on the beautiful streets and basking in the warmth of the City of Joy. If you walk about a kilometre towards Central Avenue, you can reach Paramount, the legendary sharbat shop. Founded in 1918, the shop initially sold sharbats just acting as a front to a secret meeting ground to a group of freedom fighters, which dissolved with time. With its finesse only getting better with time, the shop today offers three kinds of sharbats — water-based, milk-based and curd-based. You must try Daab Sharbat (green coconut water flavoured with an inhouse syrup, with generous amounts of ice shavings and coconut malai). The most popular drink at Paramount, this will quench your thirst so well that you will not look at any other cooler all summer! In case you are in mind for something heavier, try the Passion Fruit sharbat, which is a concoction made of fruit and rabri, topped with almonds, cashews and raisins. The price for most drinks vary between ₹60-120.

Lunch at Swadhin Bharat Hindu Hotel

While sipping on your sharbats, you will notice around you, book shops appearing at more frequent intervals than usual. If you step out of Paramount and follow the trail, you will end up at Presidency University. If you pass by Presidency on the left and keep walking, in under eight minutes you will reach Swadhin Bharat Hindu Hotel, your destination for lunch. Legend has it that Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose was a regular here during his college days. These kinds of eateries in the city are called 'pice' hotels, which are diners where you could get a multi-course meal under one paisa, back in the day! Even now, the meals are affordable. The first rice serving starts from ₹20 and you can get a five-course lavish meal under ₹250. Dishes such as shukto (vegetable cooked in milk gravy) and pui shaker chochchori (Malabar spinach curry) make good options for vegetarian diners. However, the plethora of fish curries available here — from tyangra jhal and aar kalia and chital korma to chingri machher malai curry — are bound to turn anyone into a fan!

Savoury snacks at Indian Coffee House

After the hearty lunch, if you decide to walk around a bit, we wouldn't stop you. But we suggest you stay in the neighbourhood — College Street if you are a bibliophile or College Square if you want a chill-out zone. But we want you to come back to Indian Coffee House opposite Presidency College for your afternoon chai-time. The oldest café in Kolkata, Indian Coffee House had once served as the meeting spot for countless leisurely rendezvous, polemical koreros and secret dates and would bustle mostly in the afternoons and evenings. The food catered to these guests took shape accordingly. Snacky yet wholesome — think cutlets, rolls and stews. What you must try here is Cold Coffee with Cream — the traditional chilled coffee served in a tumbler with a straw. For food, we suggest you try chicken kabiraji (deep-fried chicken in a fluffy and crispy exterior) and mutton Afghani cutlet (mutton cutlet and diced veggies cooked in a thick tomato-based gravy). One good meal will cost you around ₹100.

Dinner at Trincas

To end the day, we take you to the central part of the city — Park Street. Once mostly populated with Britishers and Anglo-Indians, this resto-bar had debuted as a tea-room and bakery in 1939. Serving cuisines from Chinese and Continental to Mughlai and Thai, this restaurant gives you a plethora of options to choose from. Must-try dishes include Trincas' Ala Kiev, their signature Drums of Heaven and Irani Malai Kebab. What sets their Drums of Heaven apart is that they let the chicken morsels remain crispy and keep the sauce as a dip. And the giant size of the kebab in Irani Malai Kebab, will impress with its subtlety in the spiciness and authenticity in the flavour profile, making it the perfect end to the day.

POOJA DAS

From the time she can recall, Laura Mophakedi has always wanted to step outside of Africa. And that dream has come true now as she travels with the Botswana national women's cricket team 'Herons' as they venture beyond their home turf. Fifteen women from Botswana landed in Bengaluru on November 3, dreaming of experiencing the land of cricket legends like Sachin Tendulkar and Rahul Dravid. For them, beyond the traffic, training and the spicy food lies the inspiring tales that they will take home for thousands of girls who want to grow up to be a proud 'Heron'. "Growing up, we have always wanted to travel outside Africa and India is one of the best countries when it comes to cricket. So it's like a dream come true for most of us. Even the girls who couldn't come are waiting back home but they are dreaming big now," says Mophakedi, captain of the team, who, along with her team has been practising at the Samprasiddhi Sports Estadio, Thanisandra.

The Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) has collaborated with the Botswana Cricket Association to host the two-week tour in Bengaluru. As part of the tour, the team will engage with various coaches and have training matches with the local teams to prepare for the upcoming World Cup Division 1 Qualifiers in December in Uganda. Coach of the team Stanley Timoni says, "We need to up our game and we are here to learn. It is a different environment and very different conditions in terms of the pitch, we are facing a lot of spinners here which is giving our batters an opportunity to learn how to play spin."

With the city witnessing rains, Shameelah Mosweu, vice-captain has experienced a completely different set of conditions. "Today, the pitch was damp and moist and the spin has really turned the ball a lot from the Indian team. We don't get an opportunity to face spin bowlers like that on our home turf so today was something different and challenging. That is why we are here, we need to be challenged and figure out new things."

Mophakedi agrees and adds, "We have been interacting with a lot of coaches from here and they are helping us with the basics. Yesterday, they filmed us also so we will have a video analysis as well which is something that we never had before." Apart from the training, the team will also watch the World Cup match between New Zealand and Sri Lanka today. "We never expected to watch a World Cup game live!" she exclaims.

The essence of the tour has been to better train for upcoming games, says Sanjay Bhargava, head of the delegation of the Botswana cricket team. "It is a big thing for the girls to come to India. For us, it is just a matter of developing our cricket and building relations through sports."

Creating a drama

Theatre director and filmmaker Akarsh Khurana is bringing two of his plays to Bengaluru for the first time

MONIKA MONALISA

Hailing from Mumbai, Akarsh Khurana is quite a familiar face in the Bengaluru theatre scene. This time he is coming with not one but two plays - The F Word by Aadyam theatre group and Dekh Behen 2. Both the plays are being staged in Bengaluru for the first time.

The F Word is about a son and daughter who are estranged siblings and go back to their hometown to take their father out for lunch. This is not the first time Khurana has found a muse in a dysfunctional family. Tripling, a web series written by him, or even his movie Karwaan, starring Irrfan Khan, Dulquer Salmaan and Mithila Palkar, had a dysfunctional family in the background. "Generally the subject is quite a relatable one. So that's something I quite enjoy watching and wanted to try my hand at it by writing and directing," says Khurana, quickly adding that his family is not dysfunctional at all. "I mean, they're all strange and wonderful in their own ways," he quips.

The second play he is coming up with is Dekh Behen 2. While it's quite unusual to see a part 2 of a play, Khurana says it was the success of the show that intrigued him to do so. "Dekh Behen part 1 has done about 105 shows. I wanted to know more about these women," says Khurana, about the story which has moved five years ahead.

The true nature of theatre lies in longer formats. While a lot has been spoken about reduced attention span of people, Khurana says it applies to theatregoers too. However, he believes it is the content which can do the trick. "There have been many plays which are 90 minutes long and people sit through it without being fidgety. But you need to know how much your content can hold," says Khurana, who is currently working on Mismatched's third season starring Prajakta Koli and Rohit Saraf.

(The F Word will be staged on Nov 17 and 18 and Dekh Behen 2 on Nov 19 at Ranga Shankara at 7.30 pm. Tickets priced at ₹500 on bookmyshow.com)

Here's how to cope with dizziness after a ear surgery

Balancing ACT

DR PREETI KUMAR GOYAL

EAR surgery can be a life-changing experience, providing relief from various conditions. However, it's common to experience dizziness as a side effect of the procedure. Feeling off-balance can be daunting whether you've recently had a ear surgery or are considering it. But rest assured, you're not alone in this journey.

Here are some common causes of dizziness after ear surgery and a few tips to manage these symptoms while ensuring a smoother path to recovery:

Understand the Cause

Dizziness after ear surgery can stem from various sources, including changes in inner ear function, anesthesia, or the surgical process itself. Understanding the specific cause of your dizziness is essential, as this will help tailor your coping strategies.

Take It Slow

After ear surgery, your body needs time to heal and adjust. Avoid sudden movements and rapid changes in position, especially when getting out of bed. Stand up slowly to minimise the risk of dizziness and falls.

Stay Hydrated

Dehydration can aggravate dizziness. Ensure you're drinking enough fluids, but avoid excessive caffeine or alcohol, which can dehydrate you further. Water and herbal teas are good choices to stay hydrated during your recovery.

Rest and Sleep Well

Adequate rest is crucial for your body's healing process. Make sure to get enough sleep and take short naps during the day if needed. Use pillows to prop yourself up slightly while sleeping to reduce the risk of positional dizziness.

Medication Management

Your doctor may prescribe medications to manage dizziness or nausea. Take these as prescribed and discuss any side effects or concerns with your doctor. These medications can significantly improve your comfort during recovery.

Gentle Exercises

In some cases, your doctor may recommend specific head and neck exercises to help your body adapt to changes caused by surgery. Follow these exercises diligently, as they can promote balance and reduce dizziness over time.

Recovery takes time, and dizziness after ear surgery is often a temporary side effect. Be patient with yourself and your body. With time, proper care, and adherence to your doctor's recommendations, one can likely experience significant improvements in balance and overall well-being. Remember, you're not alone in coping with dizziness after ear surgery. Understanding the causes and implementing these strategies, one can navigate this challenging recovery phase more effectively.

CHILD care

Read on to find out tips on how to care for newborns during winter

DR PARIMALA V THIRUMALESH

EVERY year, India observes Newborn Care Week (November 15 to 21) to increase public awareness of the value of giving newborns extra attention. For babies, the winter months can be especially difficult since they are more vulnerable to cold temperatures and viruses.

Understanding the vulnerability of newborns

For a variety of reasons, newborns are more vulnerable to the cold than older kids and adults. Initially, their body surface area is less, causing them to lose heat more rapidly. Secondly, their immune systems are still developing, and their bodies are continually maturing. They are more susceptible to infections as a result.

Dressing Your Newborn

It's crucial that you dress your newborn warmly and comfortably throughout the winter months. Don't dress your infant too tight because this can impede blood flow and make it harder for them to regulate their body temperature. Wear loose-fitting clothes instead, preferably made of breathable materials like wool or cotton.

It's crucial to layer your baby's clothes as well. They'll stay warm and retain heat thanks to this. A bodysuit and a base layer of underpants are good places to start. Next, put on a long-sleeved shirt and a layer of pants. Lastly, put on a hat, jacket, mittens, and socks.

Maintaining the right room temperature

Newborns should be kept in a room that is between 23 and 25 degrees Celsius. Your baby could feel uncomfortable and quickly lose body heat if your home is excessively cold. Your baby could become overheated and suffer from SIDS (sudden infant death syndrome) your home is excessively warm.

You can use a heater or thermostat to keep the space at the proper temperature. It's crucial to keep the heat source away from your baby's cot, though. Additionally, you should refrain from putting electric blankets or hot water bottles in your baby's crib.

Proper handwashing and hygiene

Before handling your infant, make sure you fully wash your hands. This will lessen the chance of germs spreading. Additionally, you should always wash your baby's hands before feeding them, especially after changing their diaper.

Maintaining a clean environment for your infant is also essential. This involves cleaning your baby's toys, changing table, and crib as well as any other surfaces they your baby may come into contact with.

Feeding your newborn

The best approach to feed your baby in the cold is to breastfeed. In addition to giving your infant vital nutrients, breast milk keeps them warm.

Avoiding illness

Keeping your baby's vaccines up to date is one of the best methods to shield them from disease over the winter. Also, you should keep your infant away from sick people. Wear a mask and wash your hands often if you or anybody else in your home is ill.

RECOGNISING SIGNS OF DISCOMFORT

Understanding the warning signals of overheated or undercooled babies is crucial. Some indicators that your kid is too cold are:

- Shivering
- Pale skin
- Cold hands and feet
- Slow breathing
- Lethargy

SIGNS THAT YOUR BABY IS TOO HOT

● Sweating ● Flushed skin ● Fussiness

‘GARADI IS A PRODUCT OF CAREFUL CONSIDERATION’

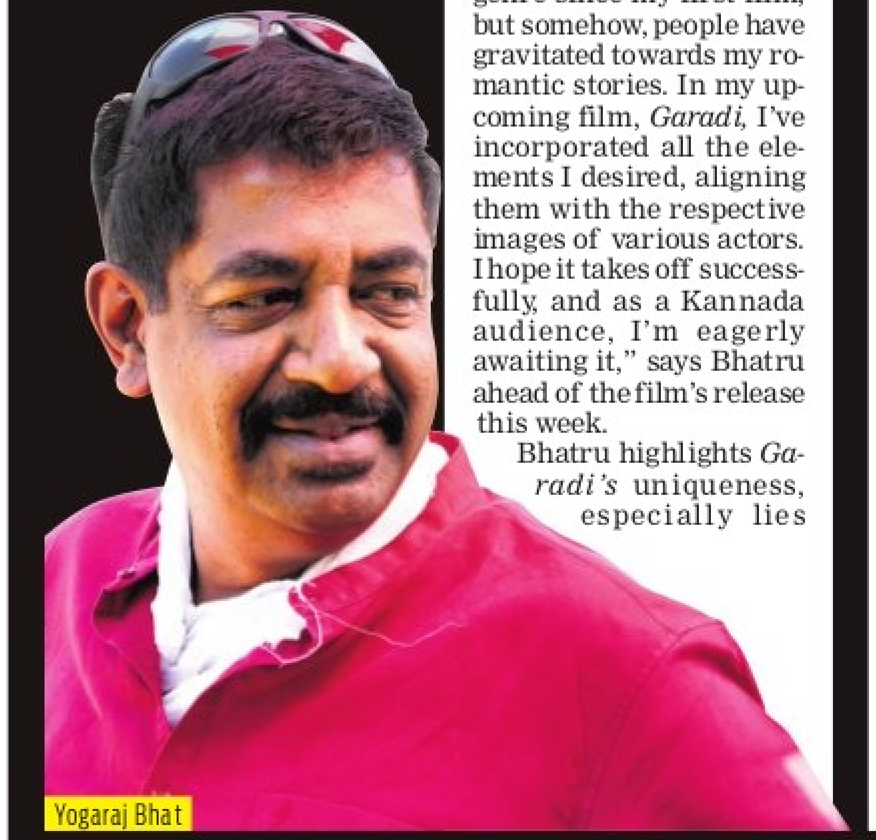
...says director Yogaraj Bhat as he discusses directing an action-packed commercial entertainer, and highlights the uniqueness of his cast



Yogaraj Bhat

A SHARADHAA

YOGARAJ Bhat, known for his romantic films, also has a deep appreciation for the action genre. “I’ve been experimenting with the action genre since my first film, but somehow, people have gravitated towards my romantic stories. In my upcoming film, Garadi, I’ve incorporated all the elements I desired, aligning them with the respective images of various actors. I hope it takes off successfully, and as a Kannada audience, I’m eagerly awaiting it,” says Bhatru ahead of the film’s release this week.

Bhatru highlights Garadi’s uniqueness, especially lies with Challenging Star Darshan in a special role, and the return of yesteryear actor and politician BC Patil. With Soorya and Sonal Monteiro playing the leads, the film also stars Sujay and Ravi Shankar.

Garadi revolves around traditional wrestling, and Yogaraj Bhat has explored the theme in detail. “Garadi is akin to a training centre, a school, where individuals pursue their chosen paths and emerge transformed. The film also takes inspiration from the story of Drona (BC Patil as Korapet Rangappa) and Ekalavya (Soorya). We have Sujay portraying Arjuna’s role, and Darshan makes a grand entrance as the hero’s brother, Shankara, at a pivotal point. The central theme explores how physical strength can lead a person into the world of crime,” the director explains.

Yogaraj Bhat describes Garadi as a custom-made film, a product of careful consideration. “While I had over 100 ideas in mind, it was Darshan’s involvement, bringing Soorya as the lead, him making a special appearance, and BC Patil’s multiple roles that shaped the story. All the main characters underwent rigorous kusti (wrestling) training before we started shooting,” he remarks.

Garadi skillfully blends major action with a love story, which, for Bhatru, is an integral part without which the story would remain incomplete. “The love element ignites the events in the story.”

The film marks the first time the director wields the megaphone for Darshan, Soorya, and BC Patil, and it presented a fresh challenge for Yogaraj Bhat. “Crafting dialogues that resonate with their respective images was paramount, and bringing it all to the silver screen took two years of hard work,” he shares.

The film, which has Niranjan Babu’s cinematography also reunites the dynamic duo of Yogaraj Bhat and composer V Harikrishna. “Harikrishna’s music from the fourth reel to the film’s end is unparalleled and irreplaceable. He narrates his story through sound and music.”

Yogaraj Bhat believes that Darshan’s appearance in the last 20 minutes of the film will be a delightful treat for his fans. “Coming from a theater background, Darshan’s acting skills, body language, and the way he rescues the main characters will be a spectacle. Moreover, we witness the humane side of this actor, evident in Garadi when he wanted to support Soorya’s career and took the initiative to refer him to the producer. He genuinely cared about the actor constructing his life post-marriage and extends his support to his friends, which will undoubtedly take him a long way,” he says.

Will Garadi change Yogaraj Bhat’s image too? “I am not image-conscious and don’t wish to be tied to a specific image. As a director, I’ve incorporated all the necessary elements in this tailor-made entertainer,” signs off Bhatru.

‘It’s important to maintain a filmography that reflects one’s choices and achievements’

says Chaithra B Achar, who discusses her part in Side B of Sapta Sagaradaache Ello, working with Rakshit Shetty and Hemanth Rao, and more

Chaithra B Achar

CE FEATURES

BY now, it’s clear that Chaithra B Achar is not your average heroine. She is an actor who is highly selective about her roles and always looks for projects that excite her. According to the actor, it’s important to be selective and maintain a filmography that reflects one’s choices and achievements. “I aspire to be the kind of actor who thoroughly prepares for each role,” she says. While her performance in the Raj B Shetty starrer Toby was one of the highlights, she is all set to prove herself again in her next project, Side B of Hemanth M Rao’s Sapta Sagaradaache Ello. The climax of Side A was pivotal, bringing Manu (Rakshit Shetty) and Priya (Rukmini Vasanth) together again. The addition of Surabhi, portrayed by Chaithra Achar, in Side B has piqued a great deal of curiosity.

When asked how her presence influences Manu and Priya’s relationship, Chaithra responds, “I won’t disclose whether I have any impact on their relationship, but my character establishes a connection with Manu, who is a flawed character with considerable emotional baggage and is struggling with a strong desire to live. I, too, am a complex individual who has encountered numerous life challenges. When two flawed individuals meet, do they become friends, or is there a hidden agenda? They share good chemistry, but the purpose of it remains a mystery that audiences will need to discover in theatres,” reveals Chaithra, who shares little about the plot and explains her role briefly.

When asked whether her character portrays a negative role or leads to a potential love triangle, Chaithra responds, “I believe that all three characters are beautifully portrayed, and audiences will empathize with them, regardless of whether their actions are right or wrong.”

Chaithra praises Rukmini’s portrayal of Priya, commending her performance in both Side A and Side B and highlighting the transformation of the characters as something to look forward to. Entering a well-established story with eager anticipation from the audience, Chaithra acknowledges that it’s both challenging and exciting. “It’s undeniably thrilling to become part of this established narrative and bring a sense of fulfillment, and I’m excited to know how people will perceive the character of Surabhi and whose side they’ll take,” she says.

Talking about her preference for love stories, Chaithra is quizzed about her choice between happy or sad endings. She quips, “Definitely a happy ending,” as she discusses her experience working with Rakshit Shetty, with whom she shares screen space for the first time. “Working with actors who are already established feels like we know them already, even though they might not know you. It was the case with Rakshit too. My initial interactions with the actor started during workshops. Even though he is perceived to be of a reserved nature, eventually, he was someone who eased into the atmosphere and was fun, making me feel like I was meeting a senior from my college. The on-screen chemistry developed during the workshops and on the sets will surely resonate on the screens.”

Chaithra also had her say about Hemanth, describing him as a sensitive, approachable, and non-judgmental director who creates a safe and supportive environment for the cast. “I appreciate his protective and open-minded approach, and he is someone who encourages the cast to approach their roles with an open mind.”

Chaithra believes that her character in Side B, will receive love from the viewers, evoking a wide range of emotions. “Thanks to the beautiful writing by Hemanth M Rao and Gundu Shetty, my Surabhi has something beautiful to offer to the audience,” she concludes.
